

Look, there's Elmo!
He's gonna read with us today!

But sometimes he runs away for a minute.
Uh-oh!

Look, there's Elmo!
And look, it's a star!
Say, "Star!"

[Okay to repeat once if your child doesn't answer, otherwise just go on.]

Oh! Now Elmo's not there!
But look, it's a tree!
Say, "Tree"

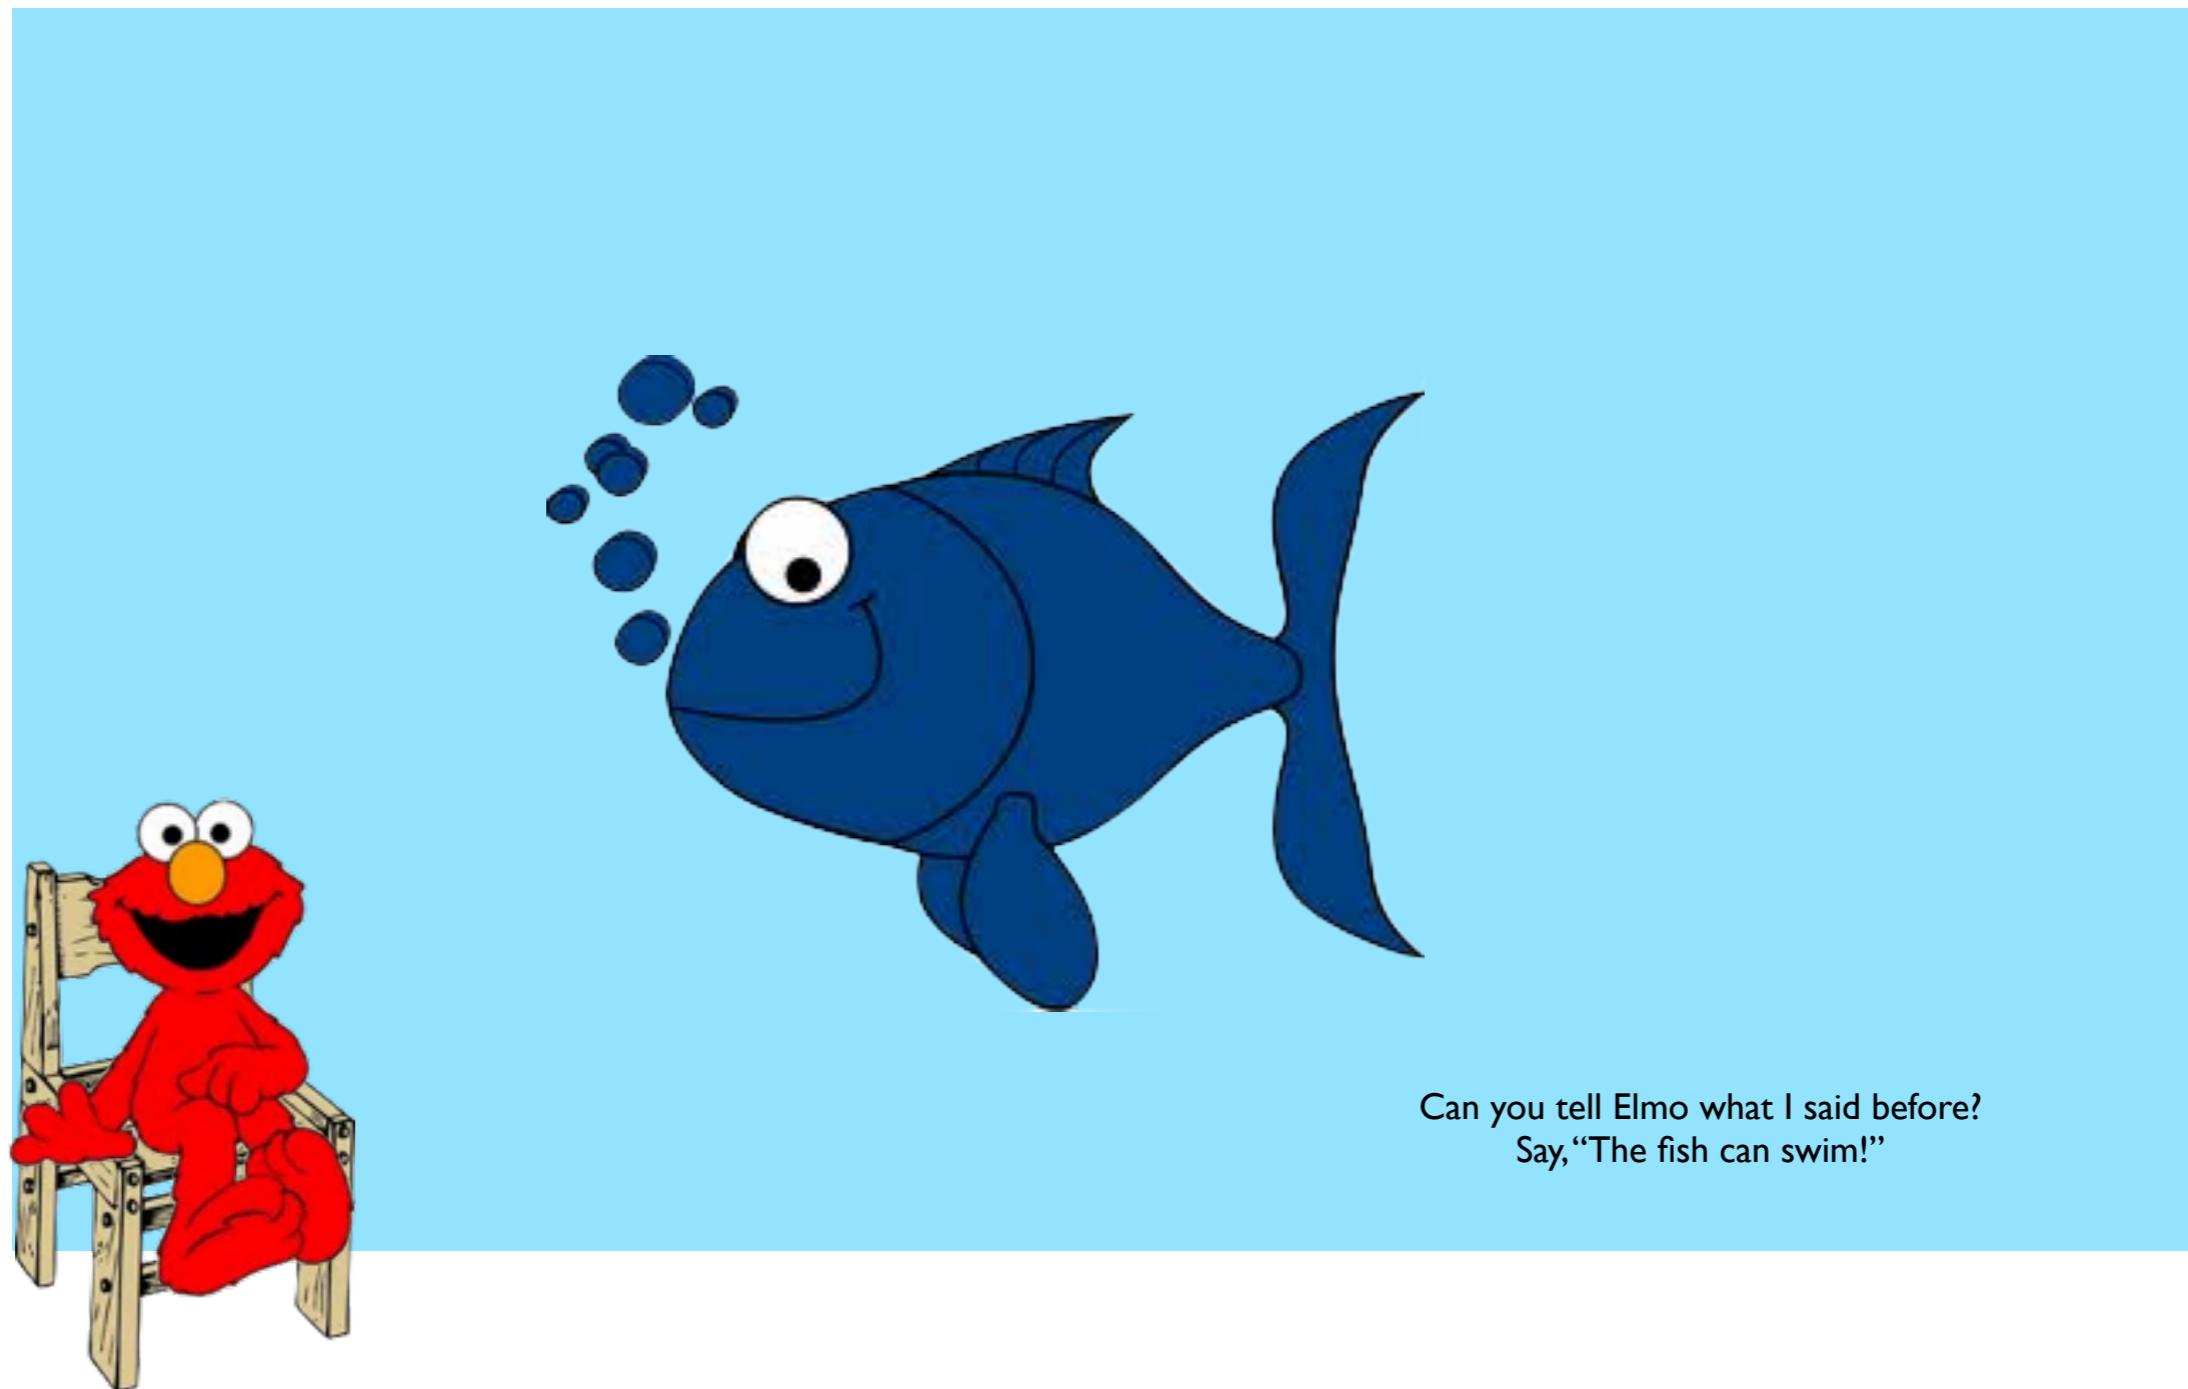

There's Elmo!
And look, it's a bear!
Say, "Bear"

Look, it's a fire truck!
Say, "The firetruck is red!"

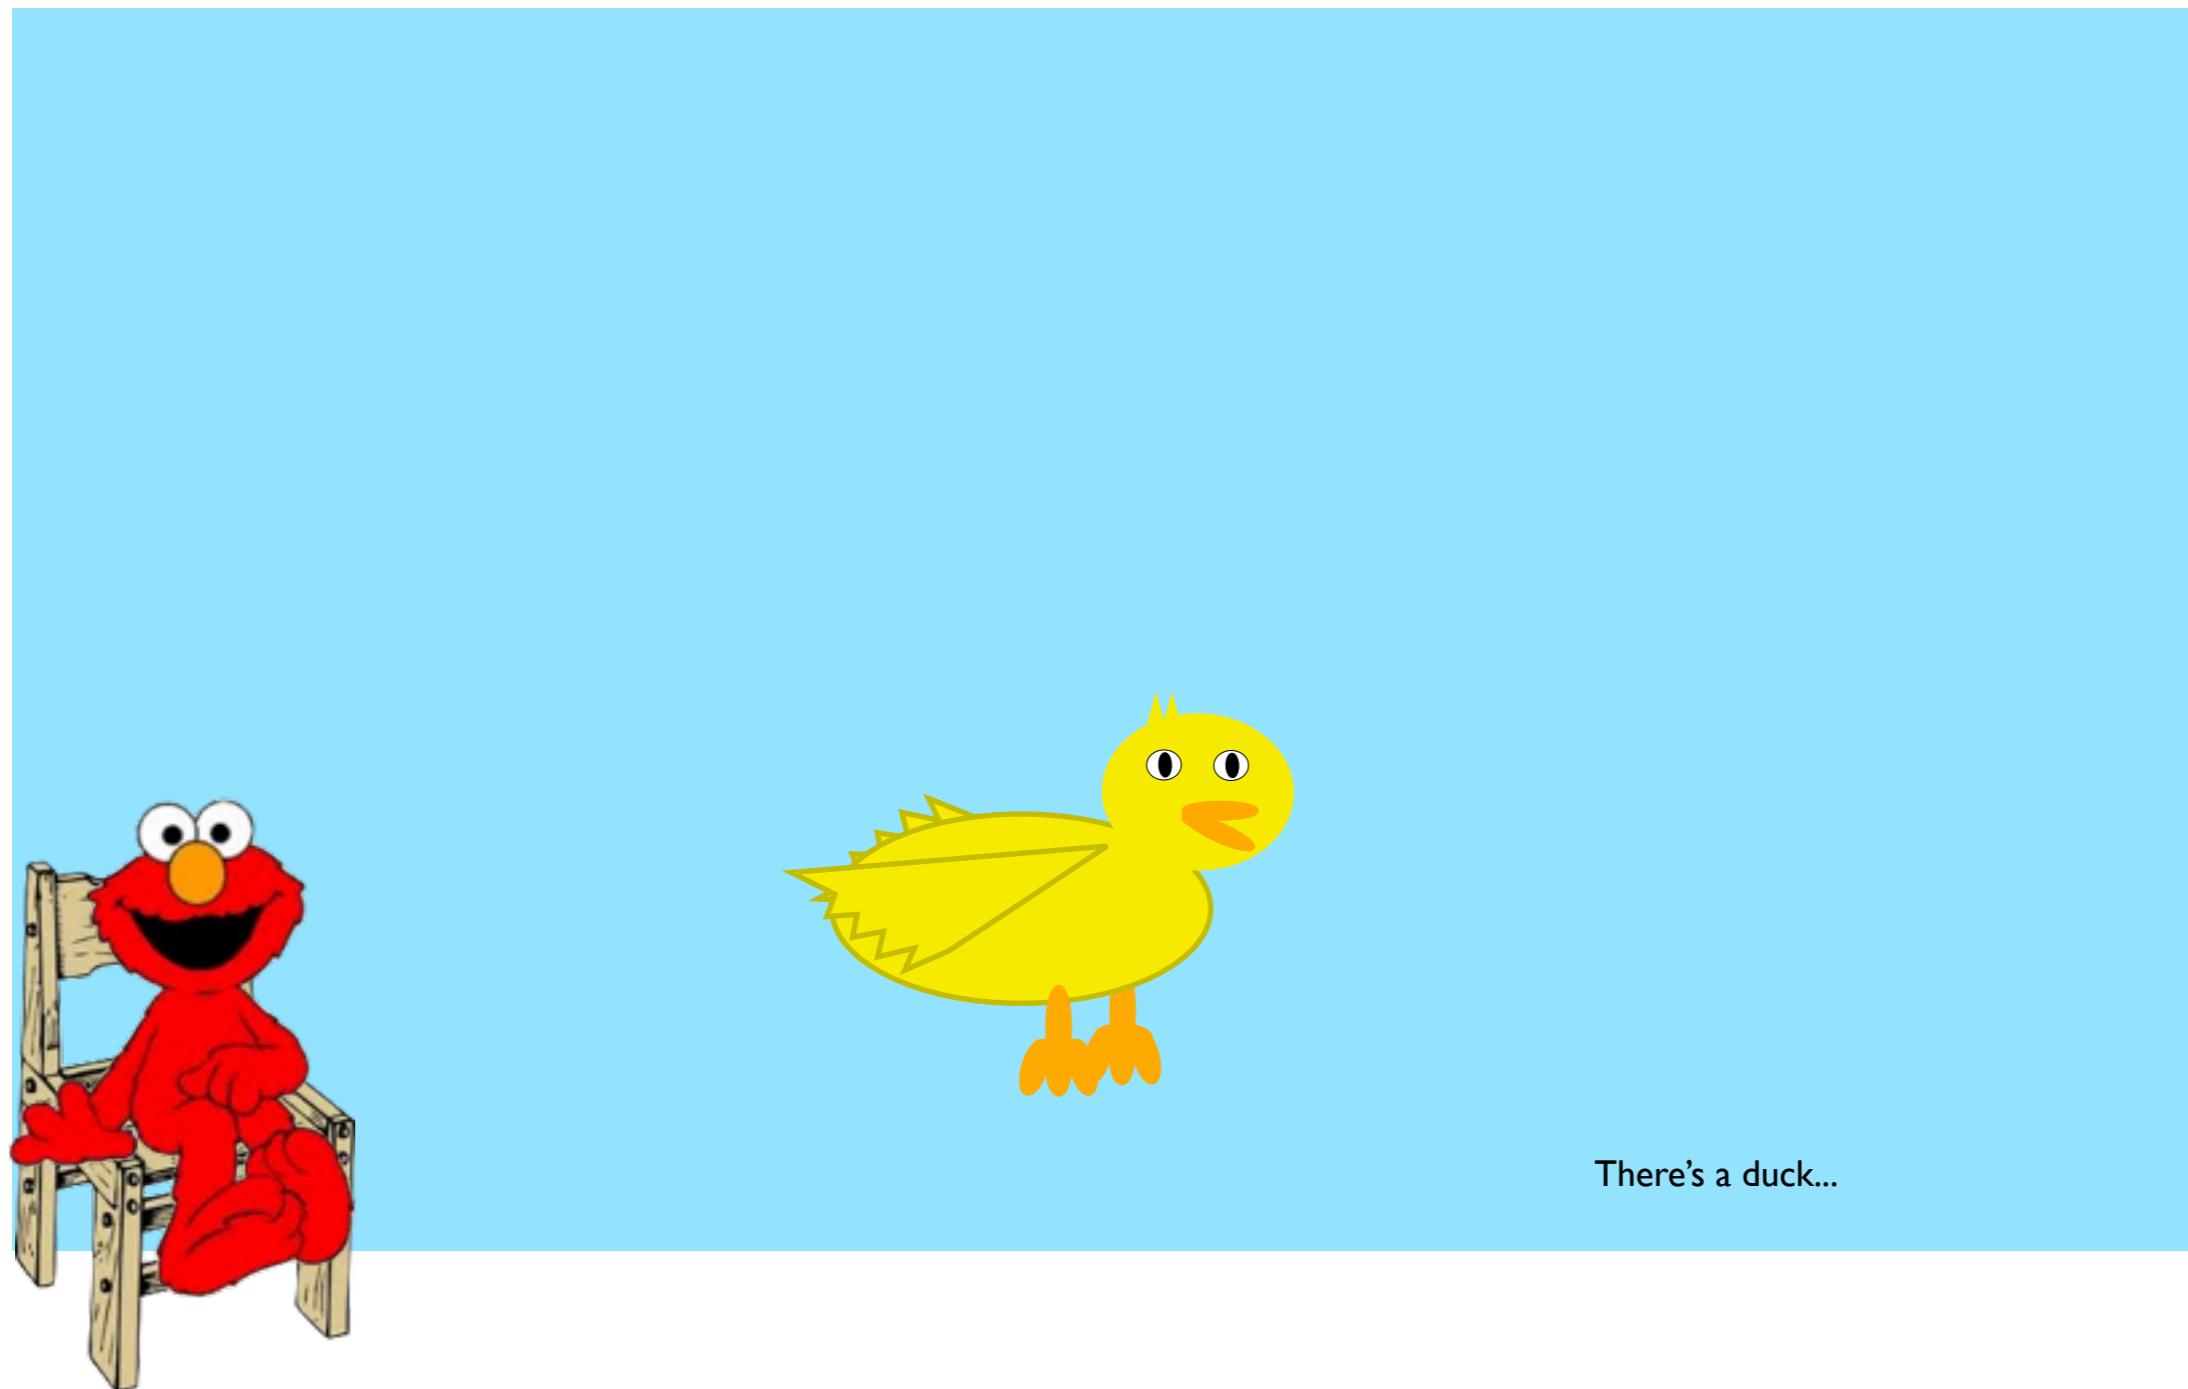

Look, now Elmo's not here.
But here's a fish!
And you know what?
The fish can swim!

Can you tell Elmo what I said before?
Say, "The fish can swim!"

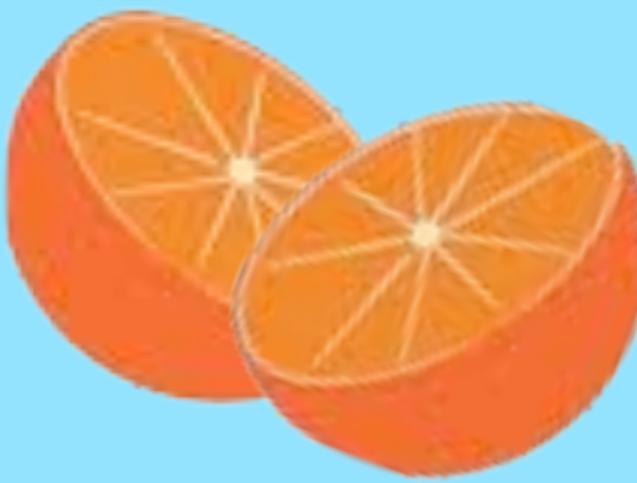

Yay! Now let's see some more!

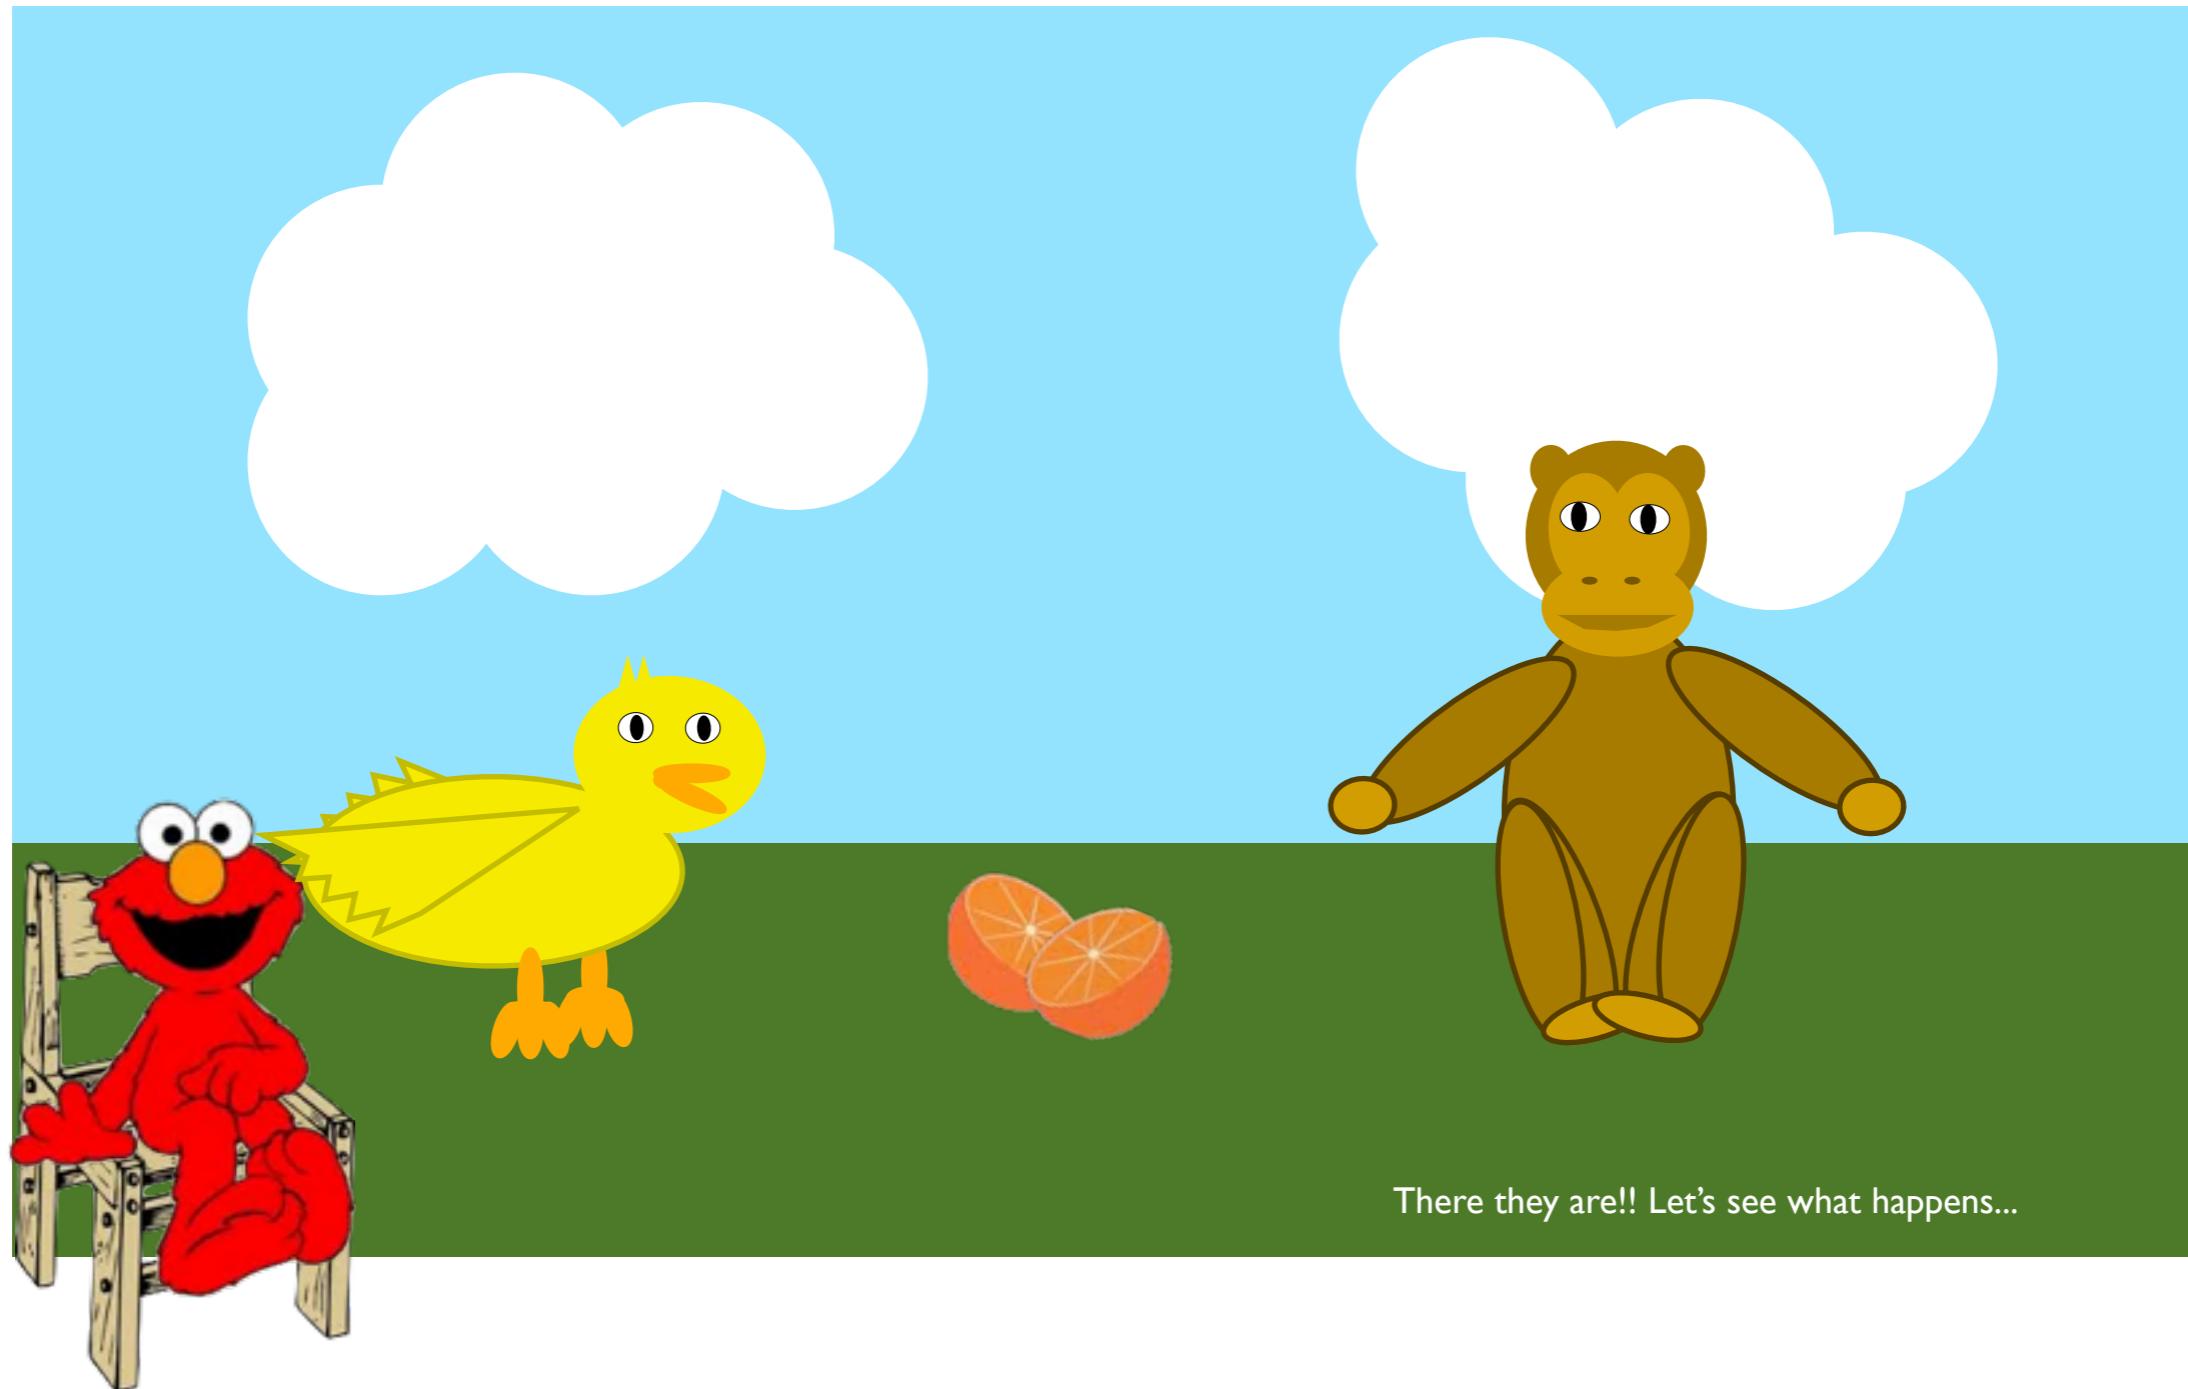

There's a duck...

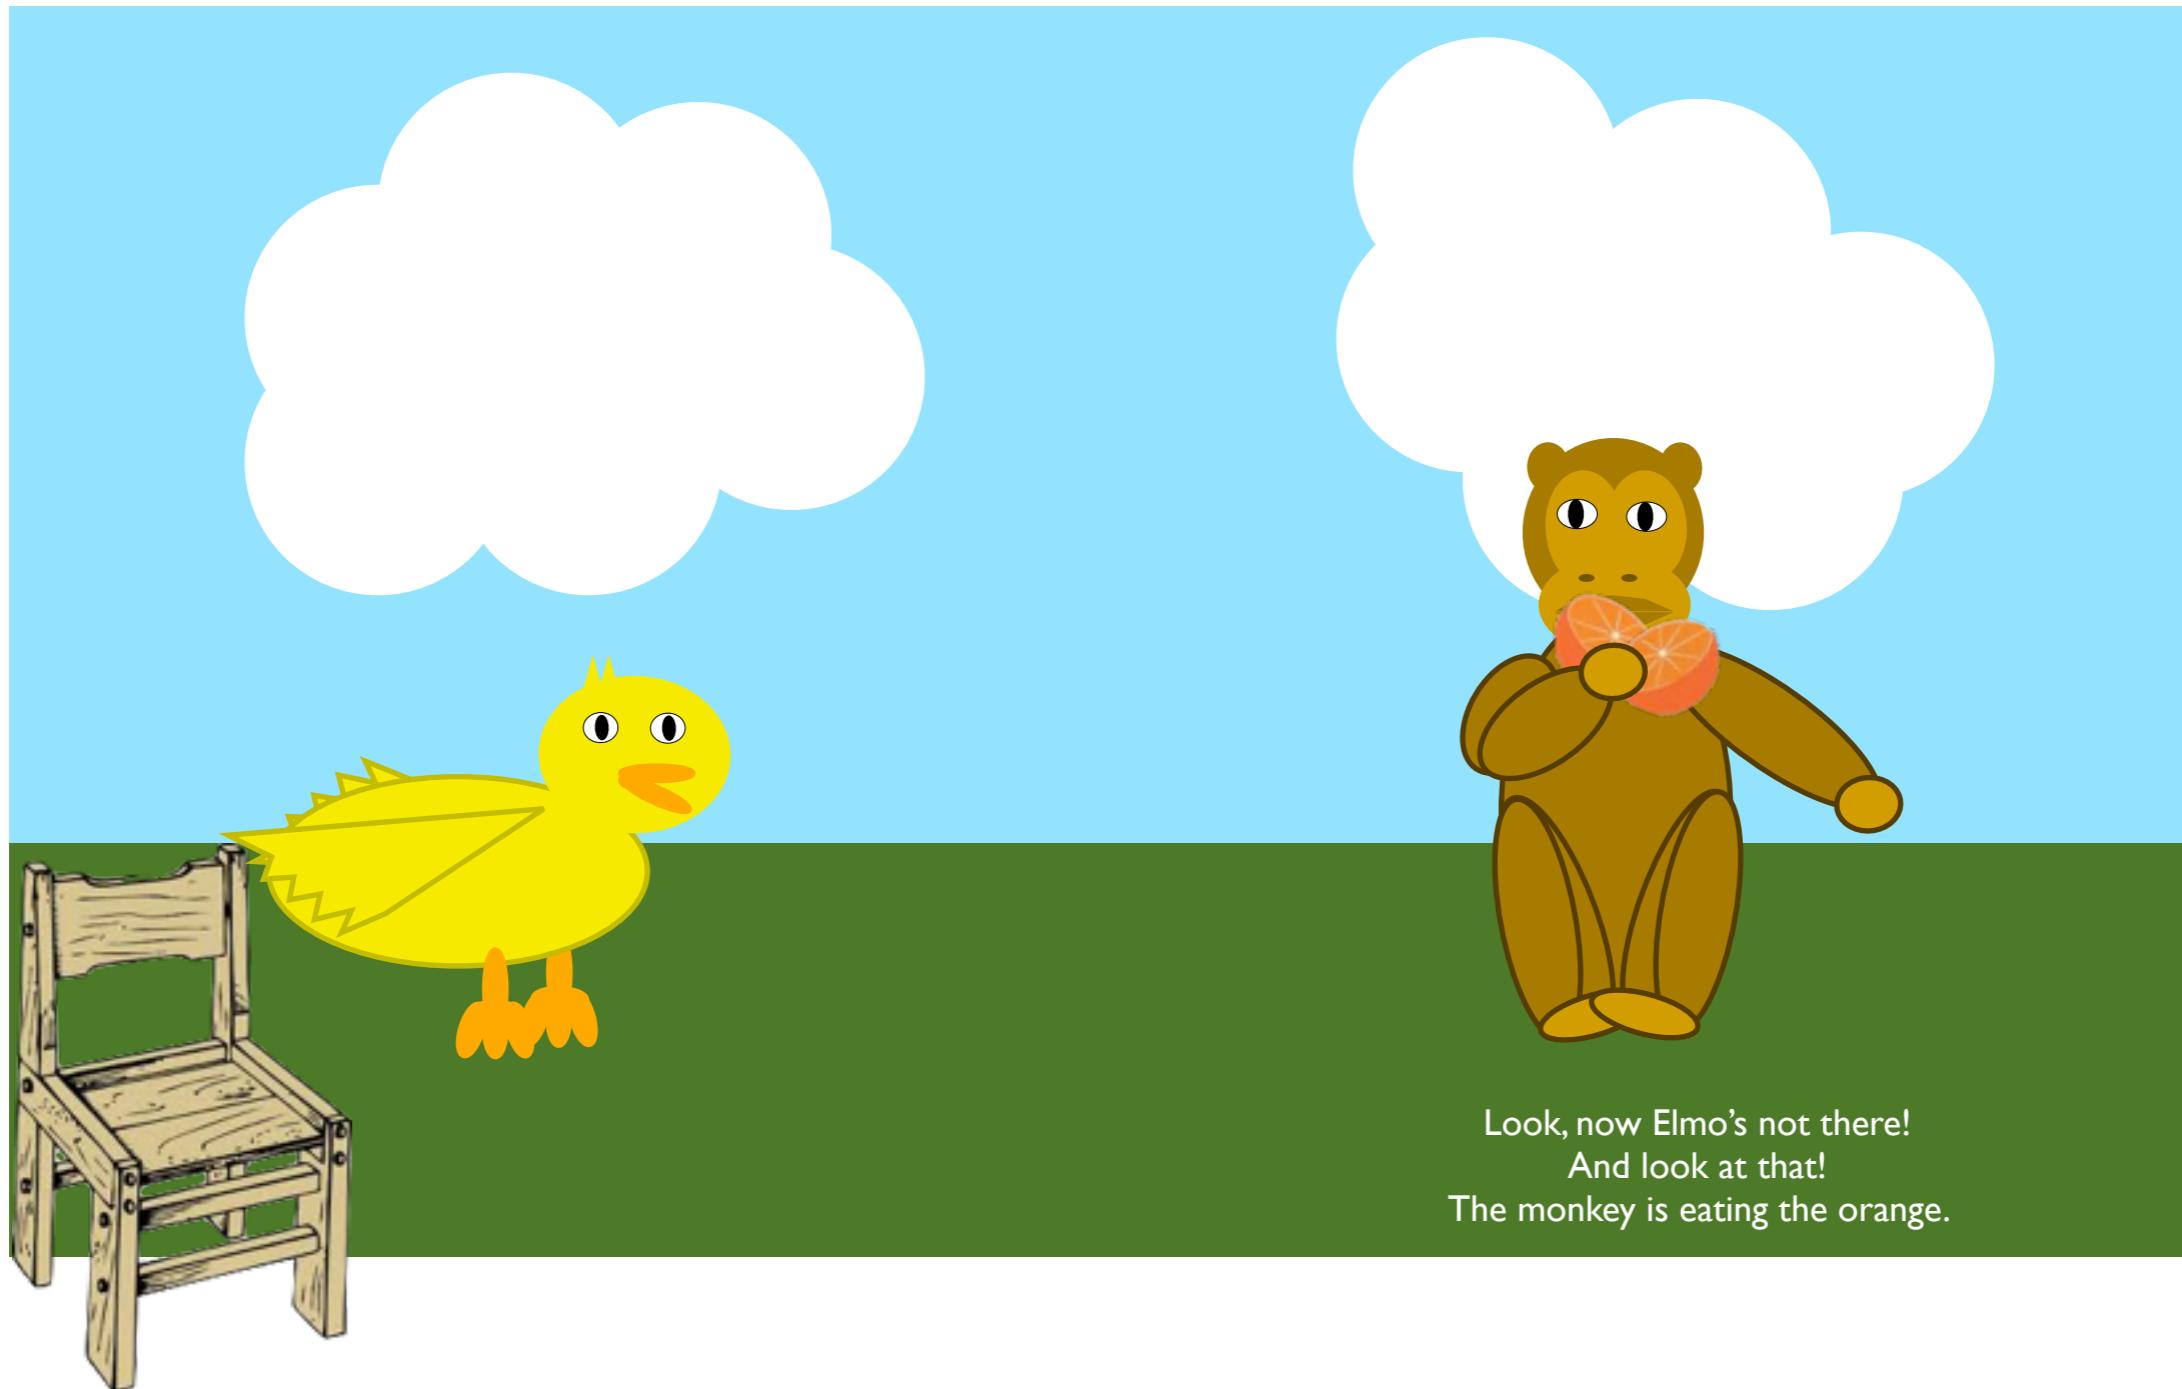

There's a monkey...

There they are!! Let's see what happens...

Look, now Elmo's not there!
And look at that!
The monkey is eating the orange.

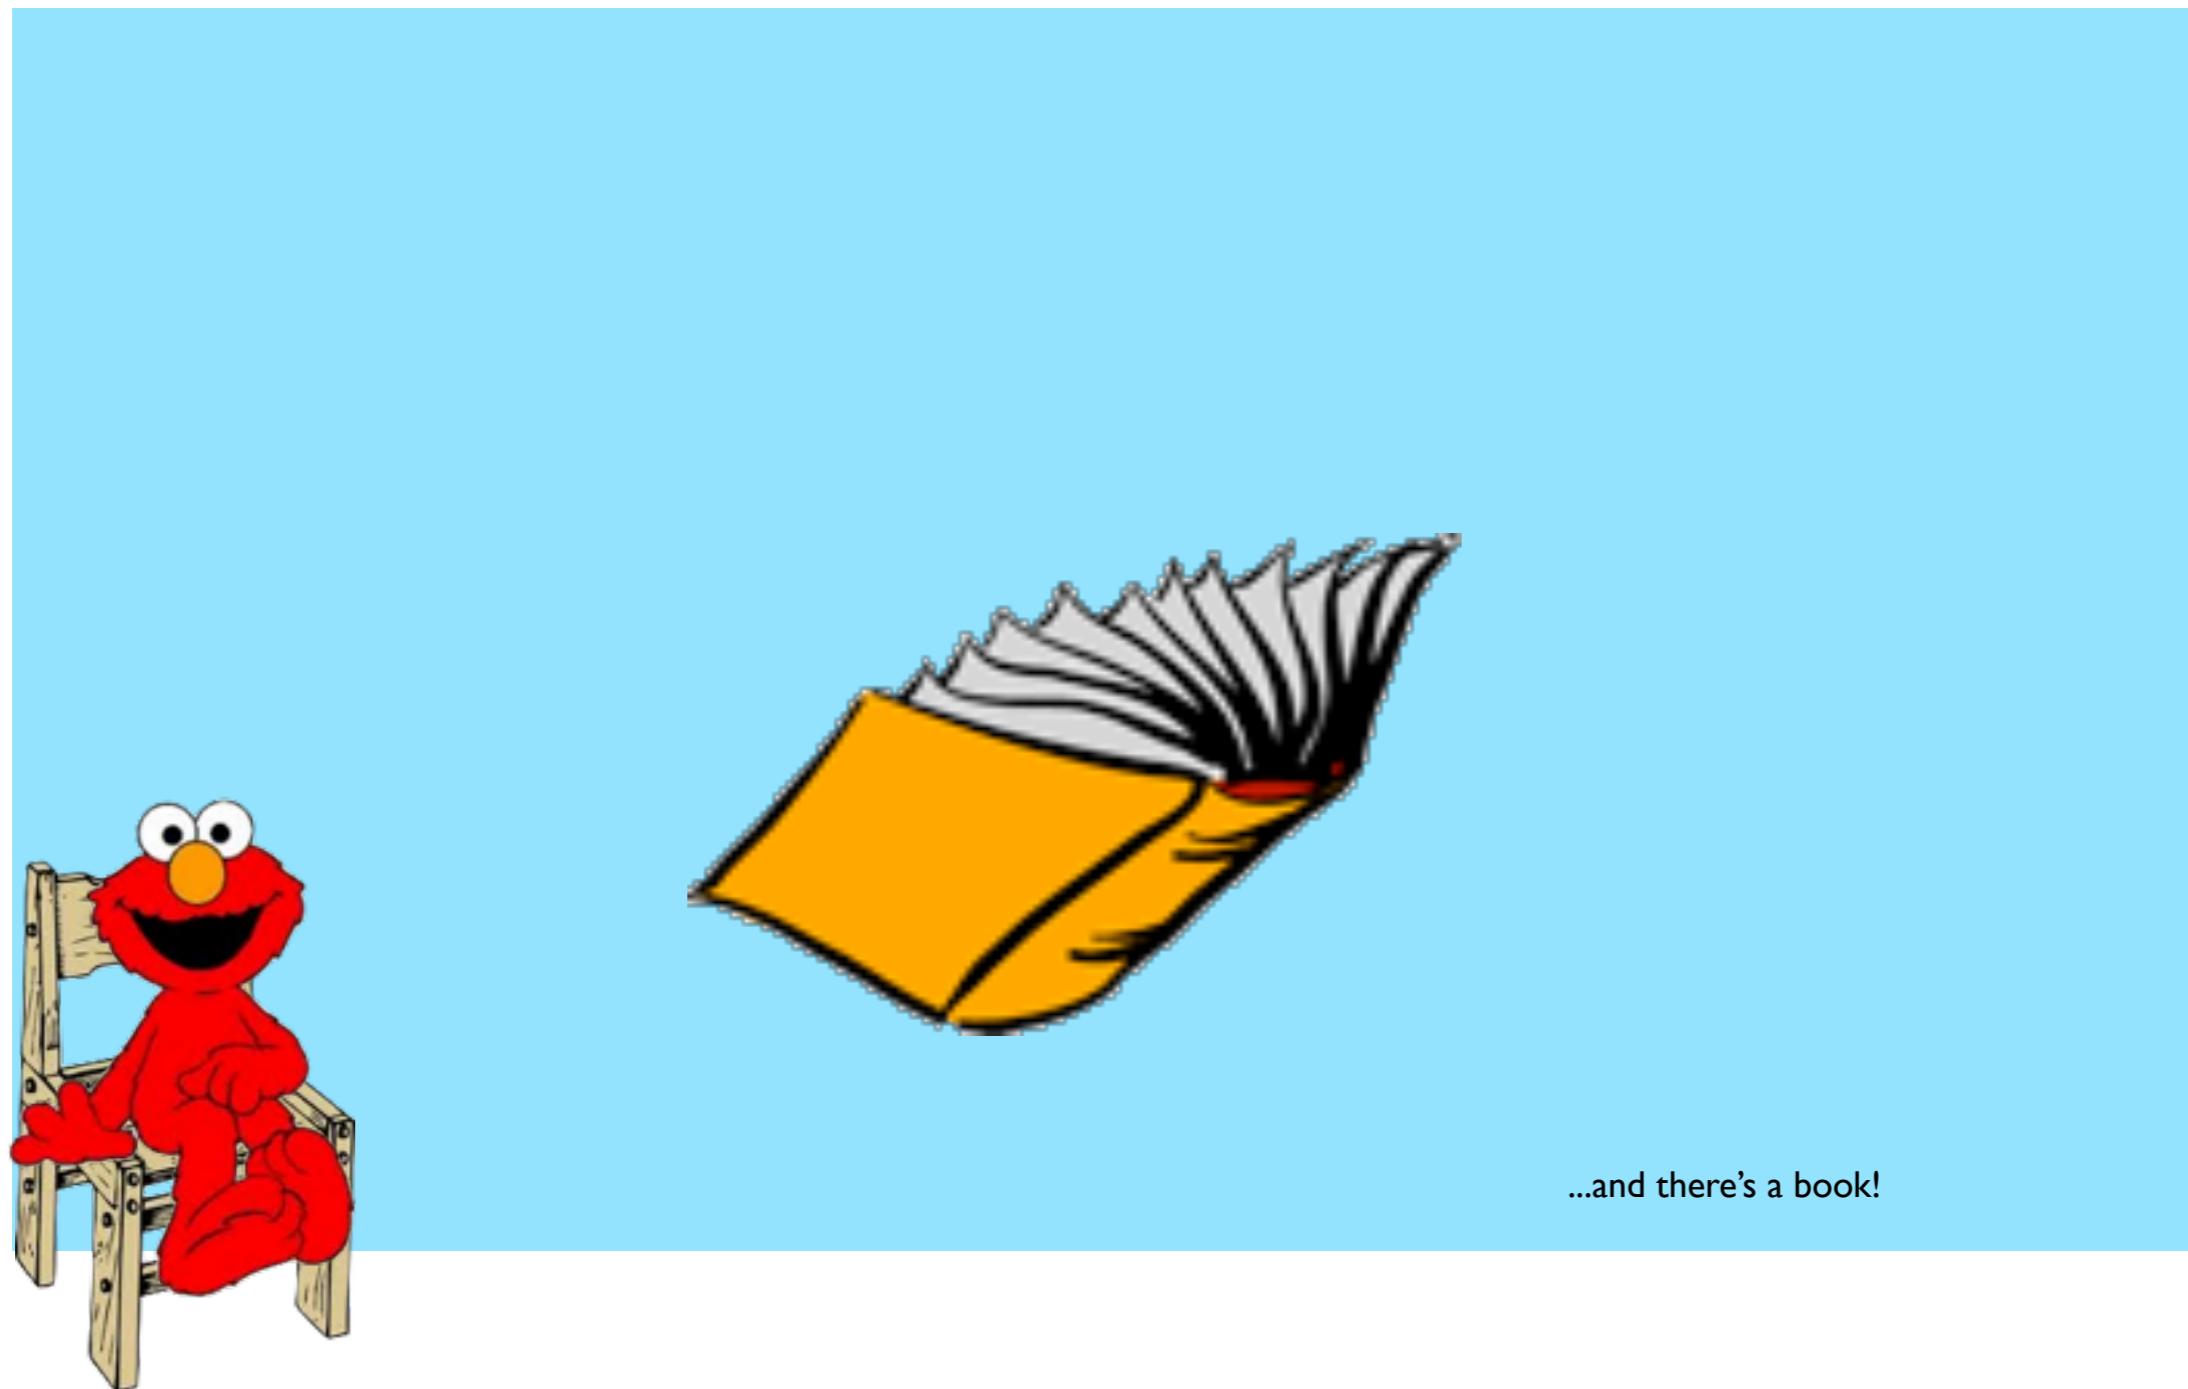

Let's tell Elmo what happened!
Say, "The monkey is eating the orange."

There's a newspaper!

There's a boy!

There they are!! Let's see what happens...

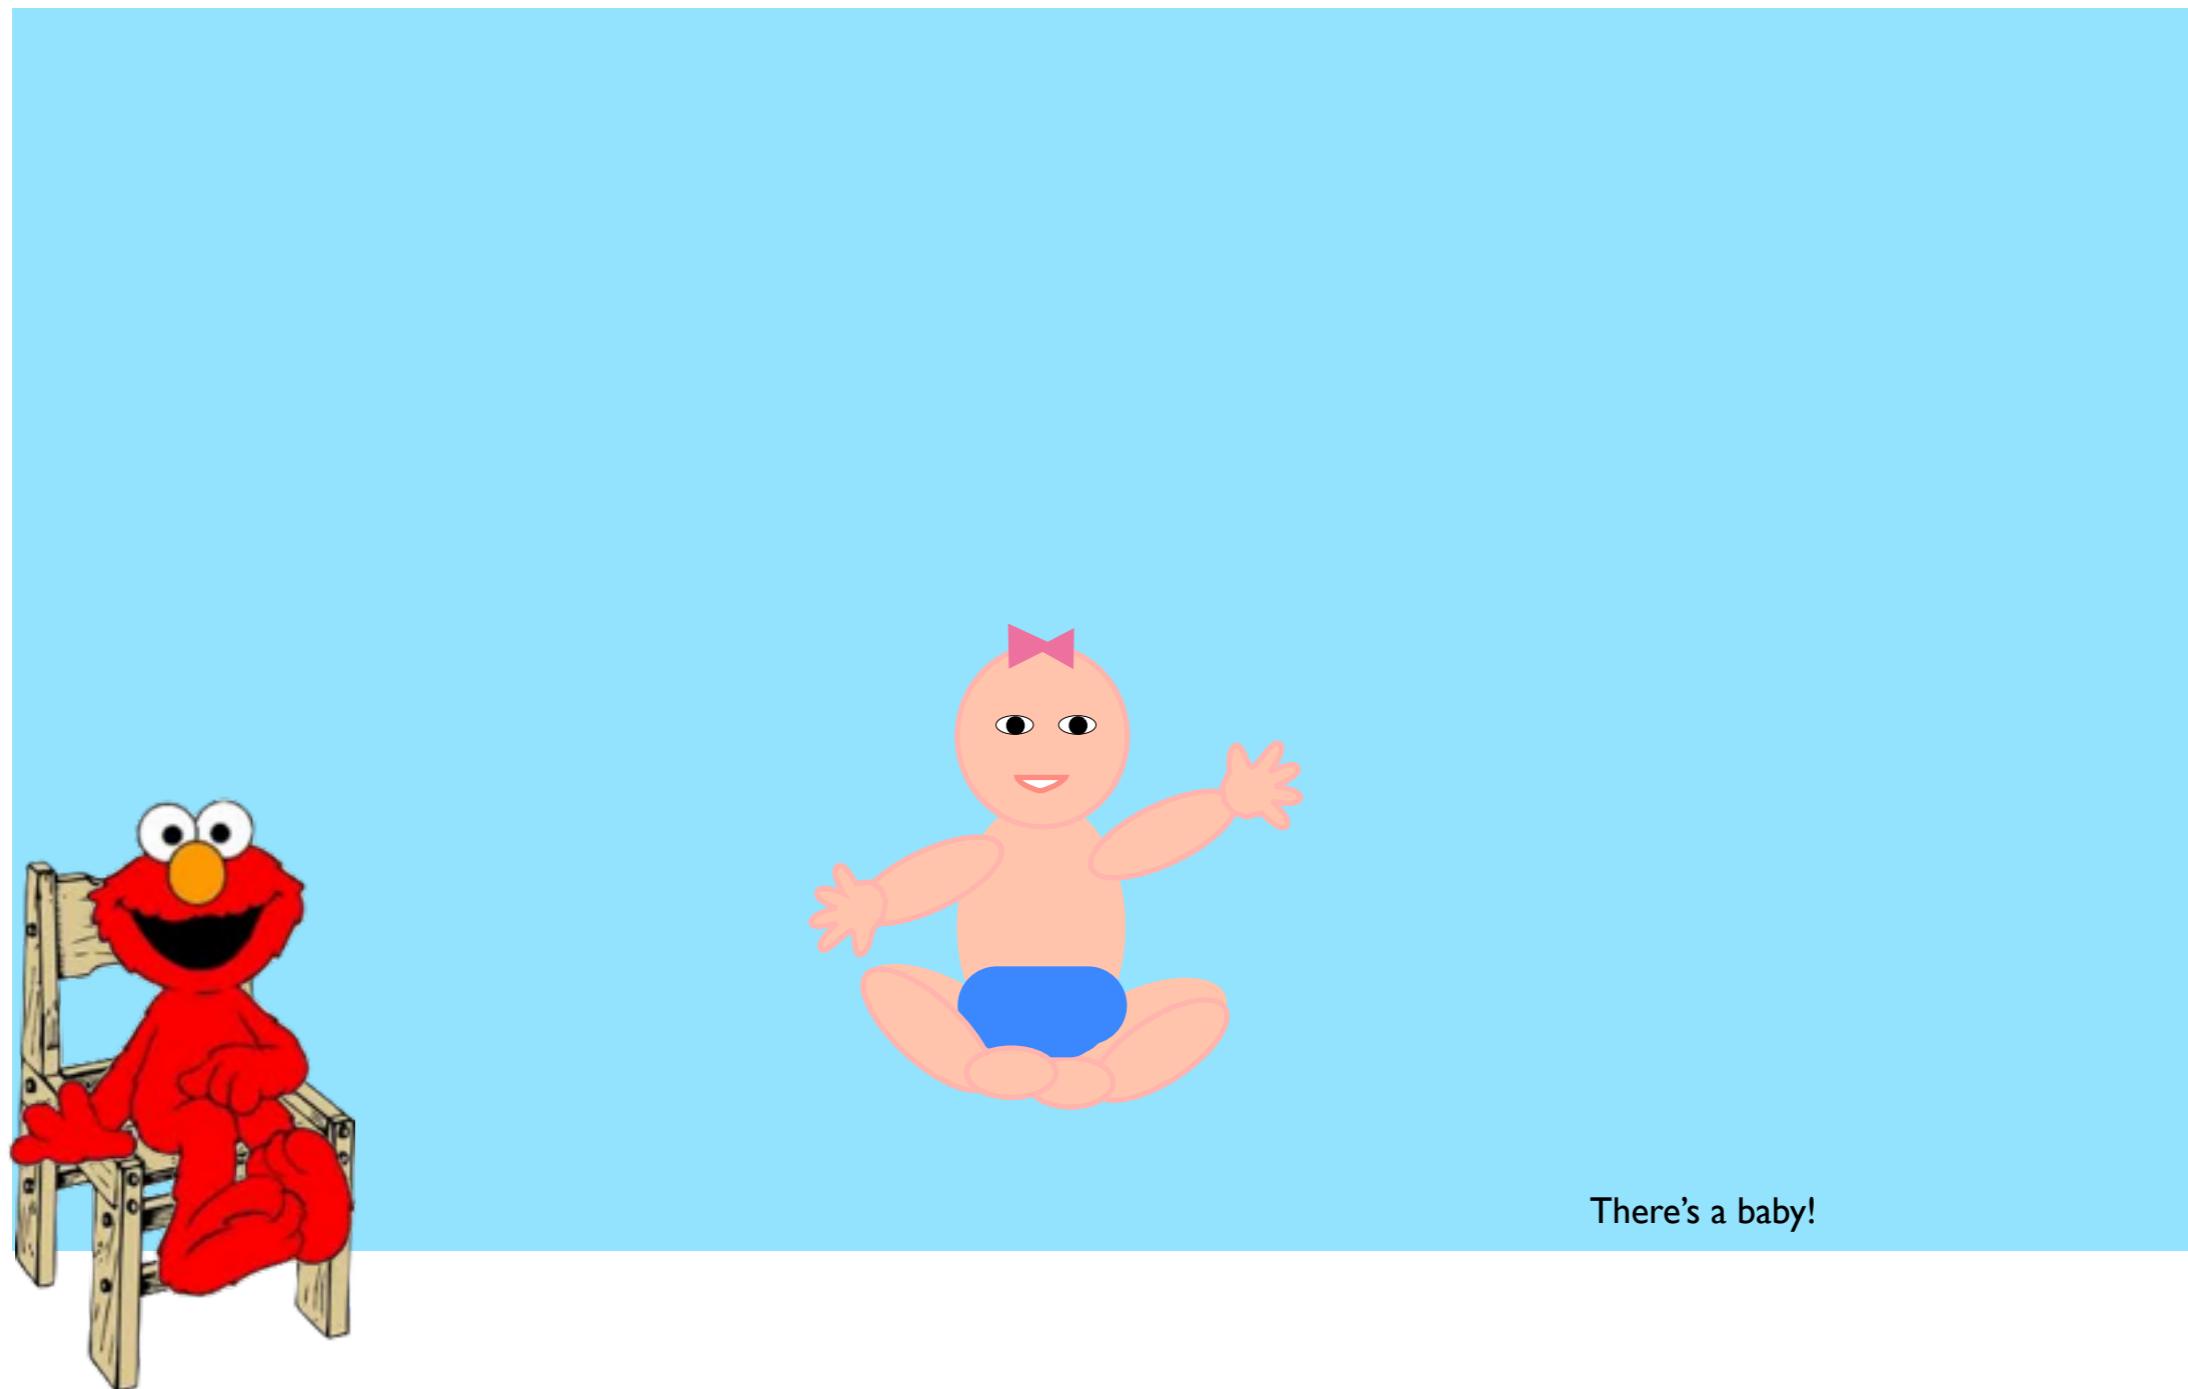

Look at that!
The boy is reading the book.

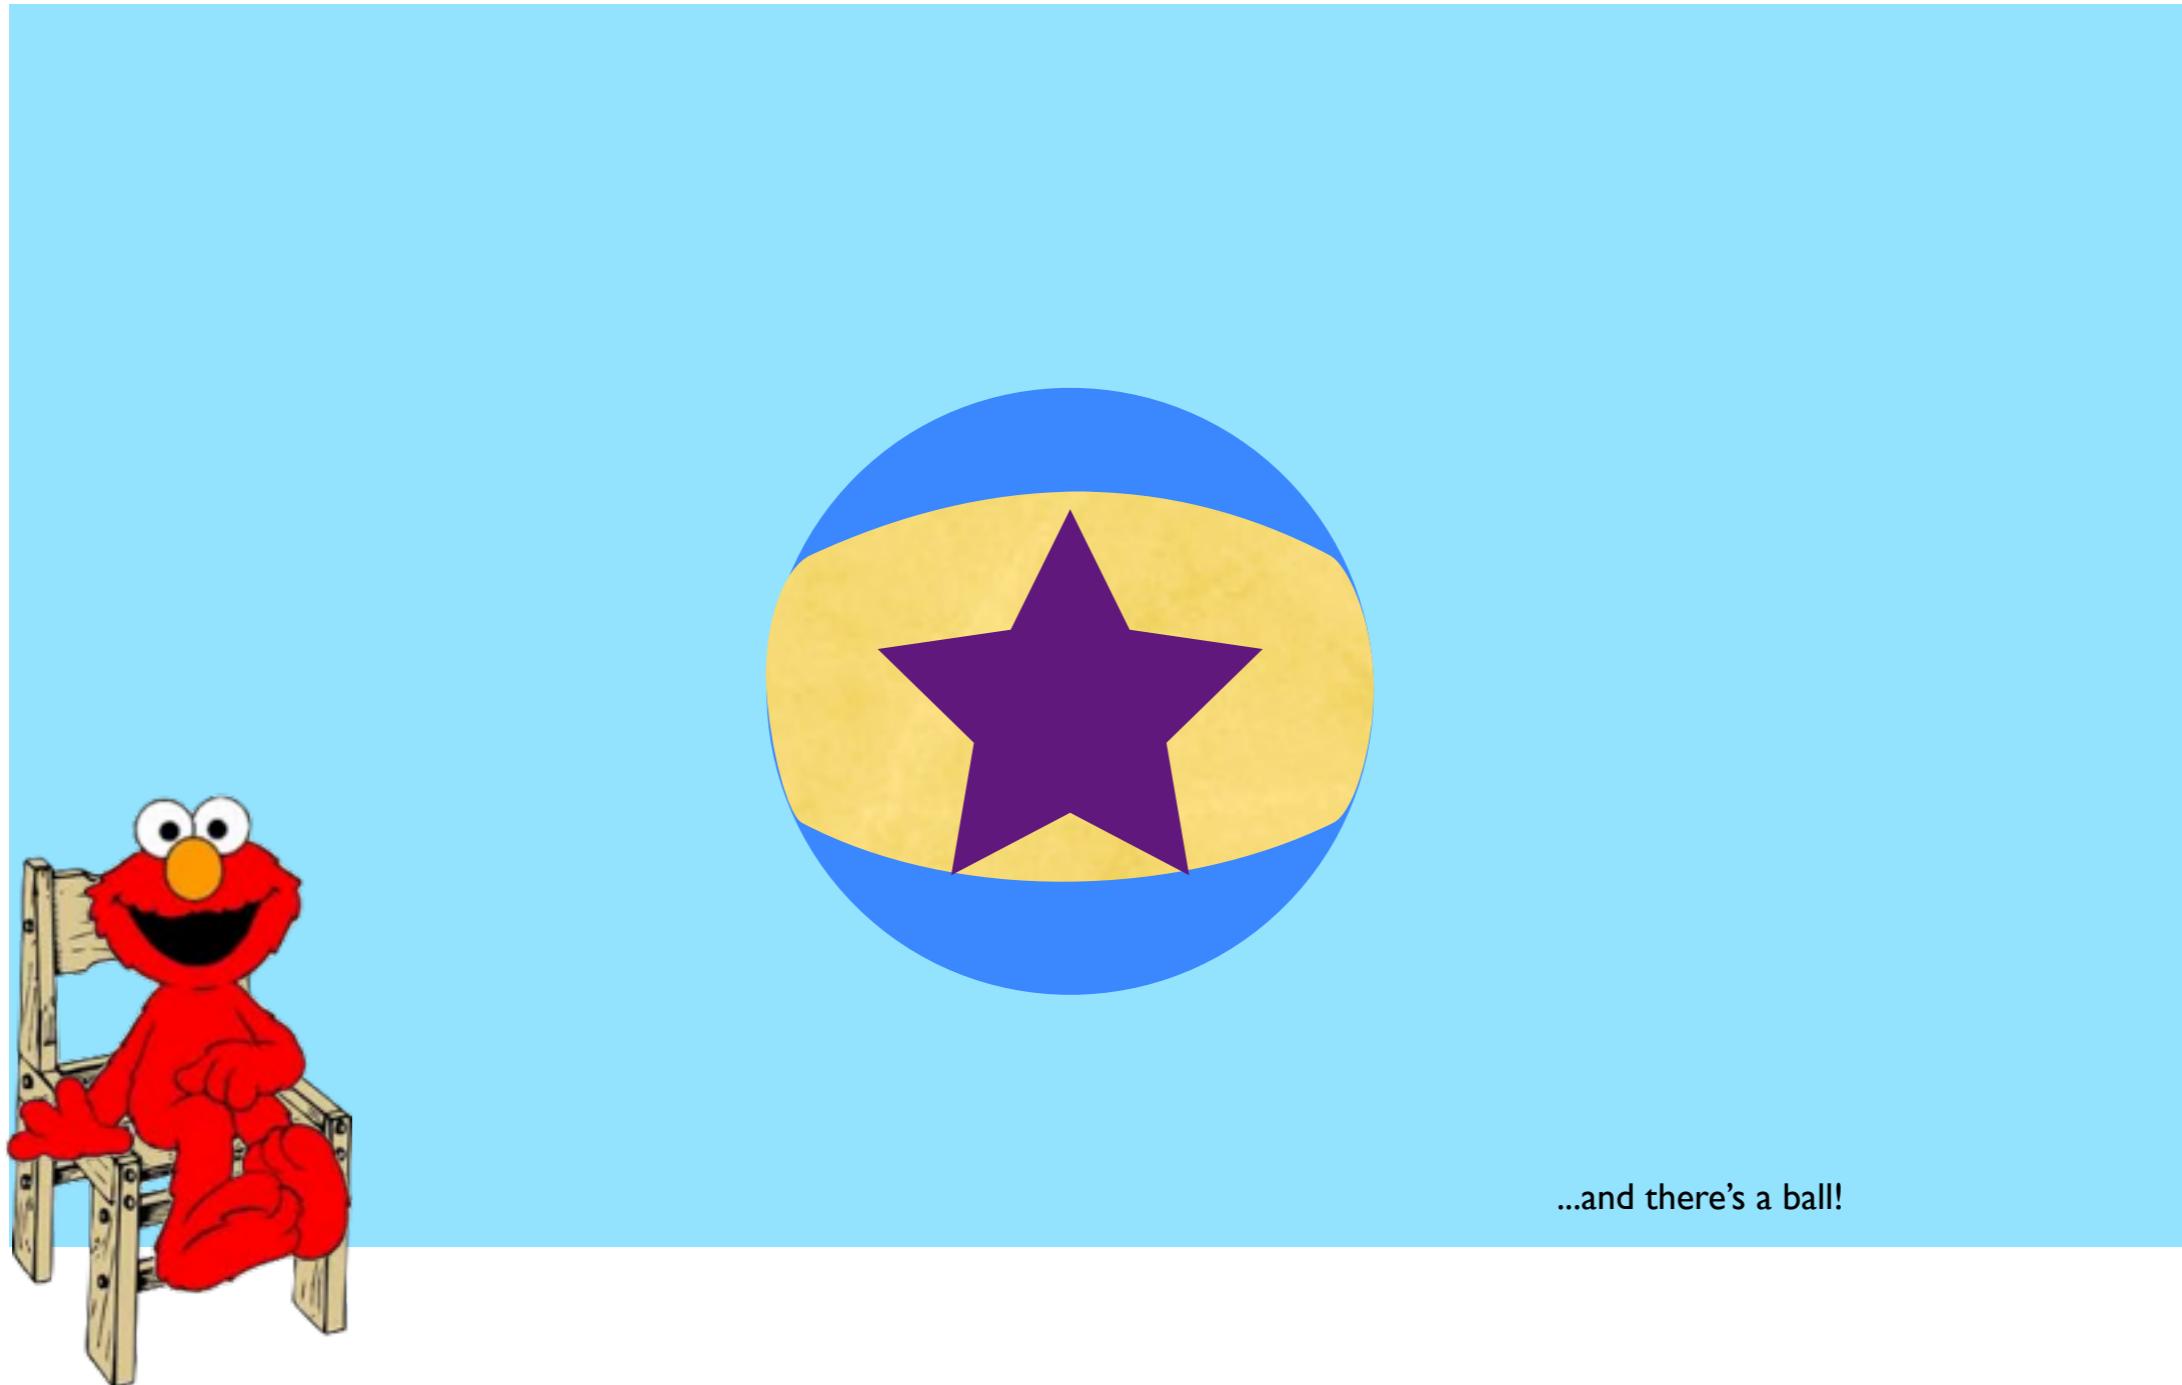

Let's tell Elmo what happened!
Say, "The boy is reading the book."

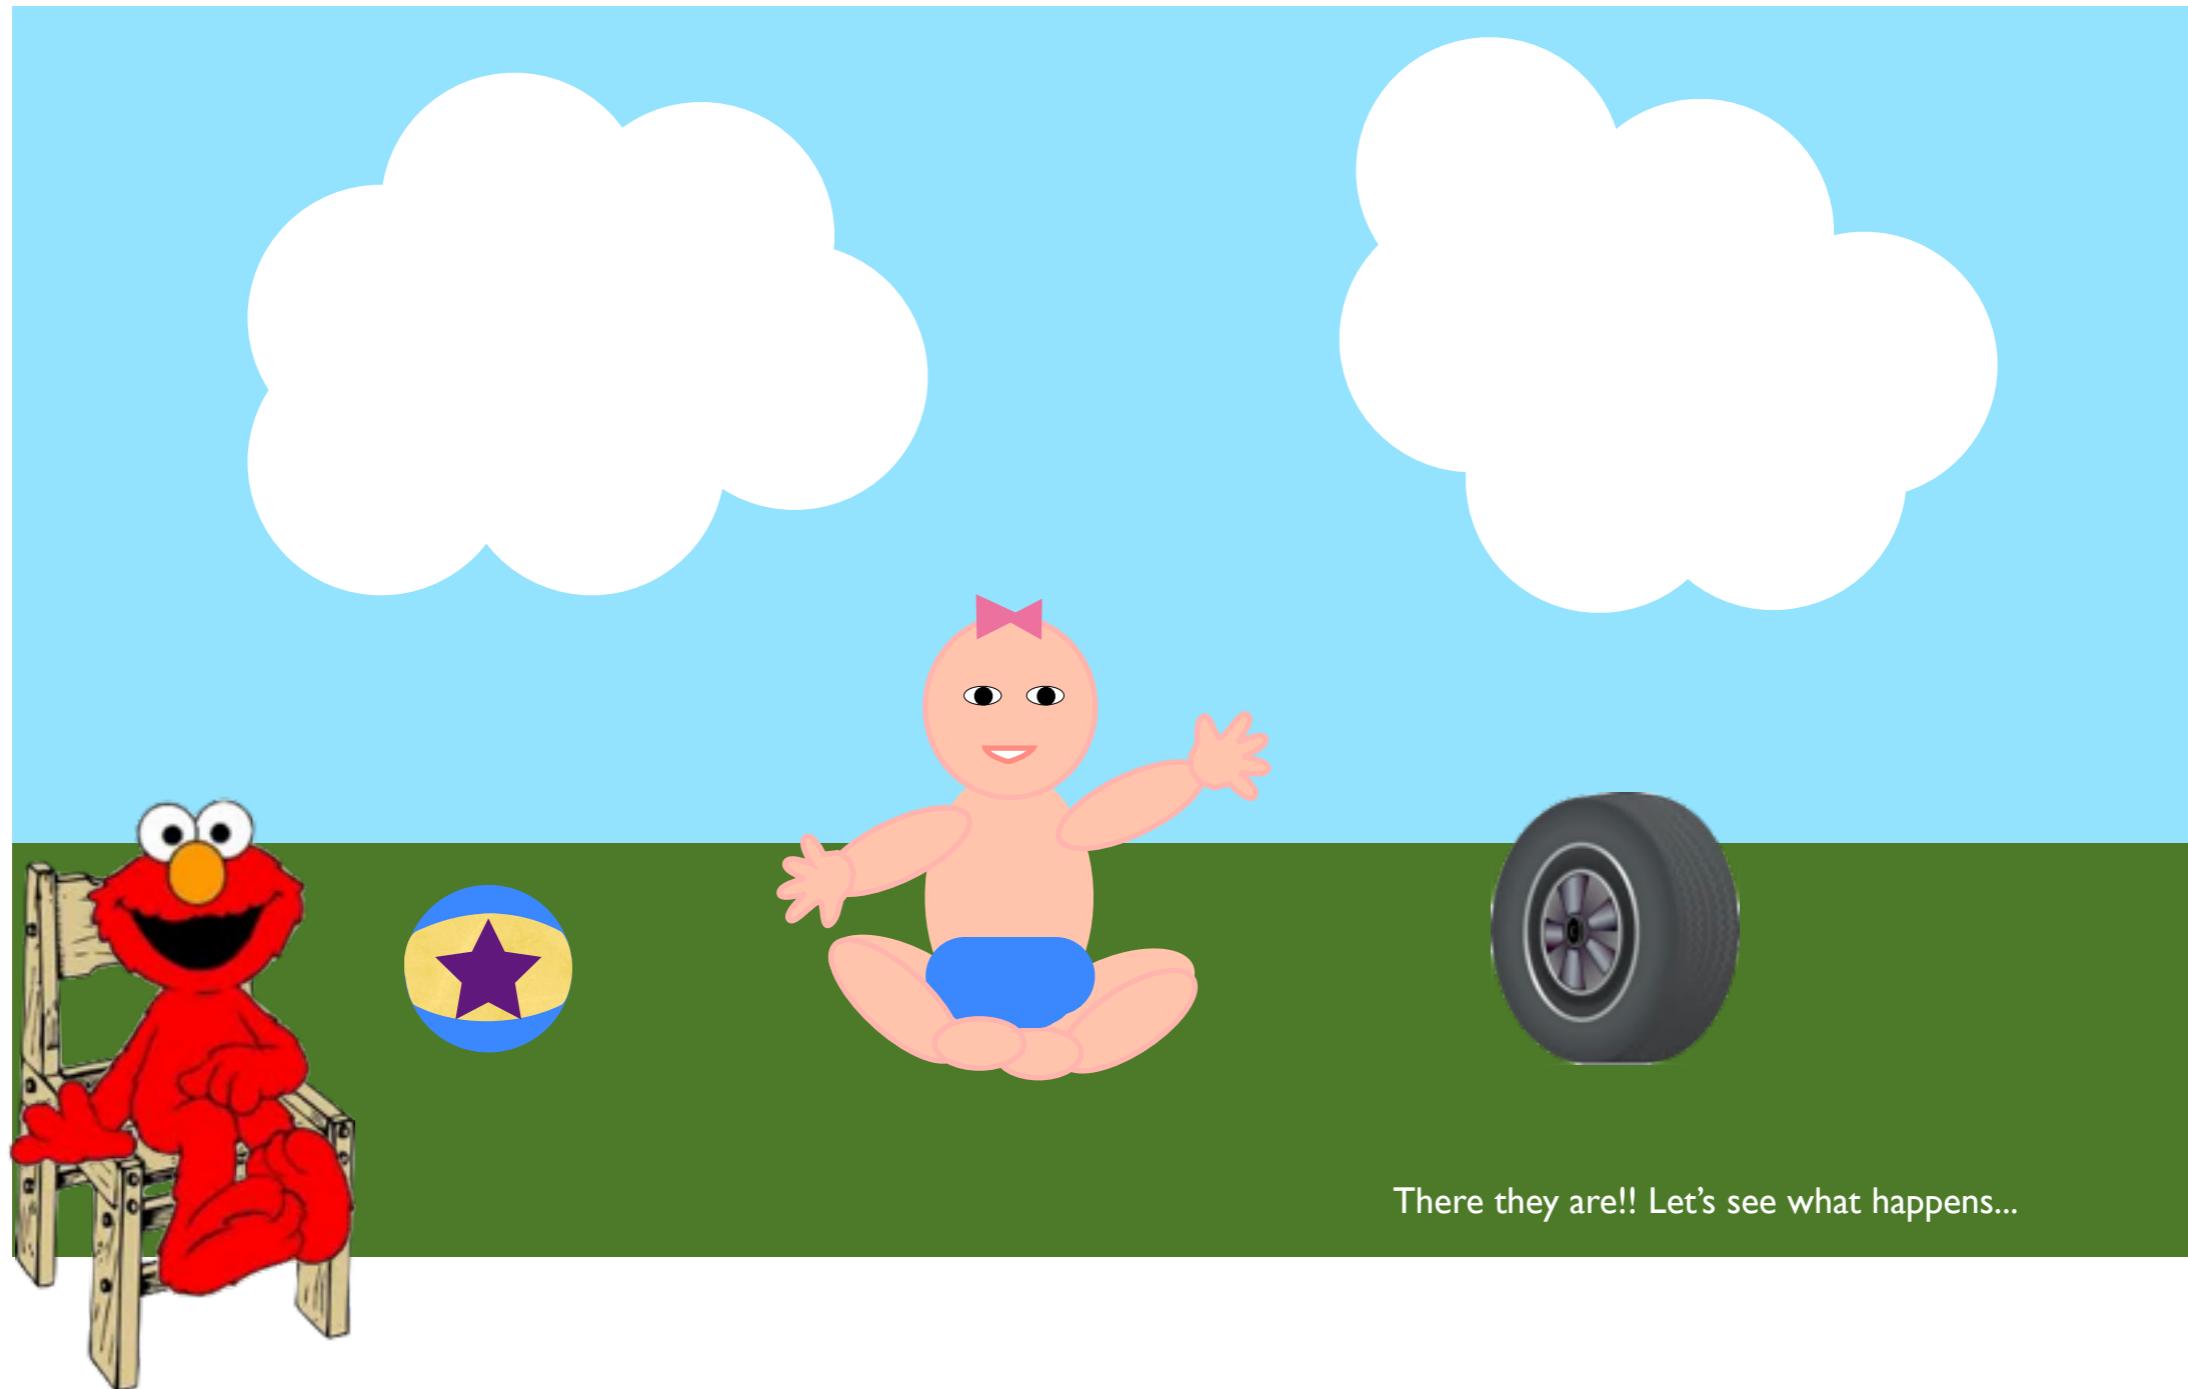

There's a tire!

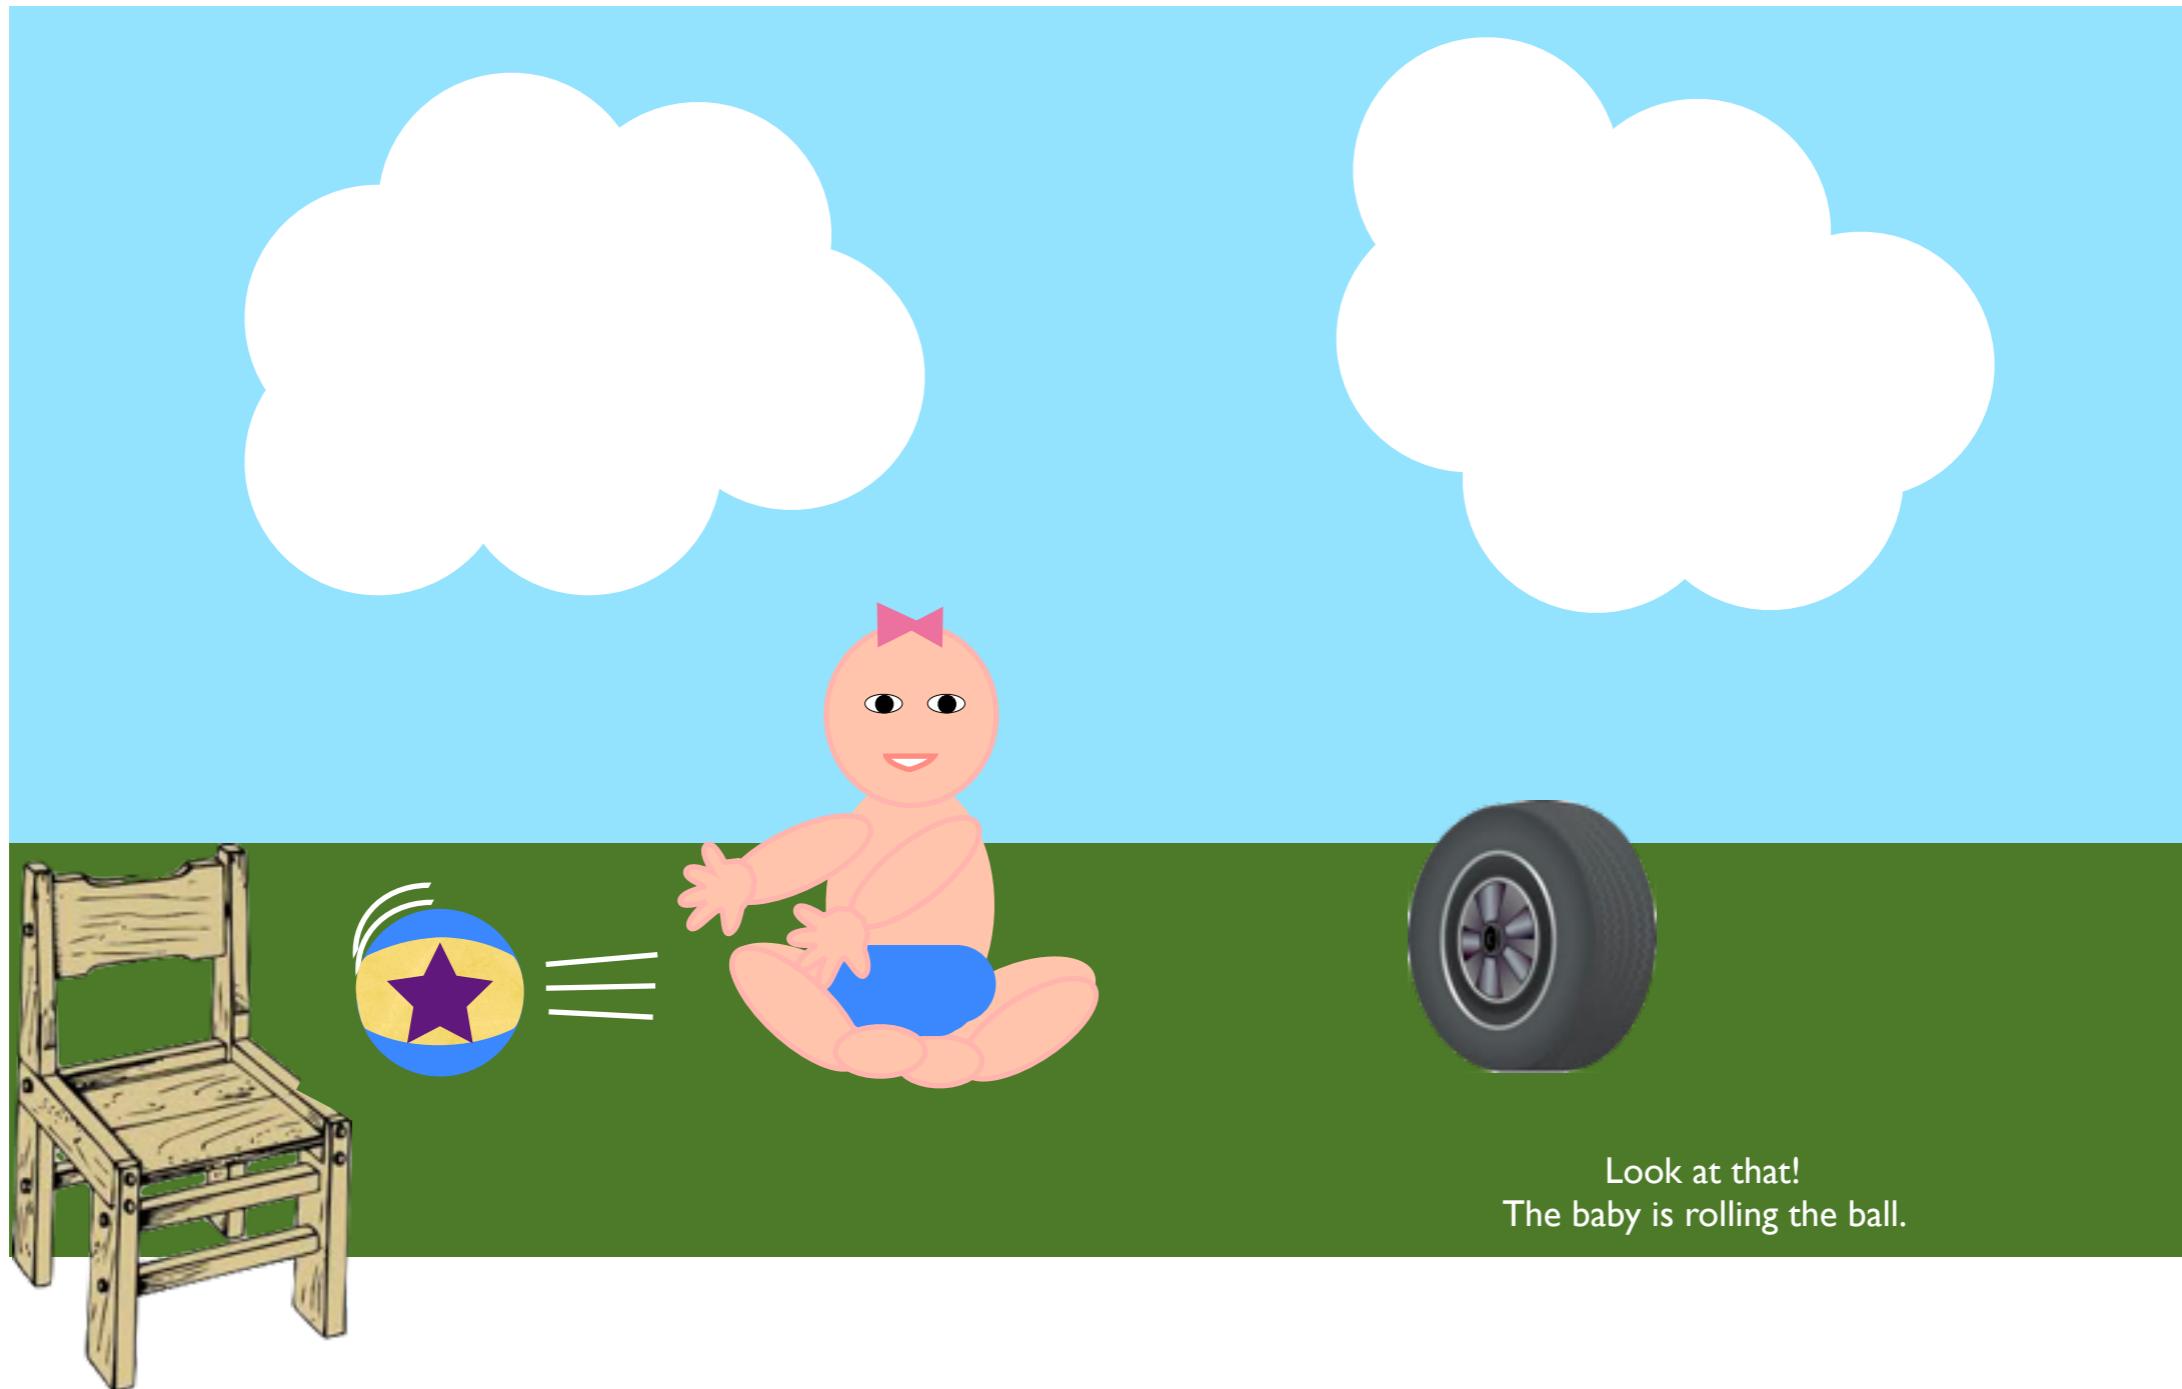

There's a baby!

There they are!! Let's see what happens...

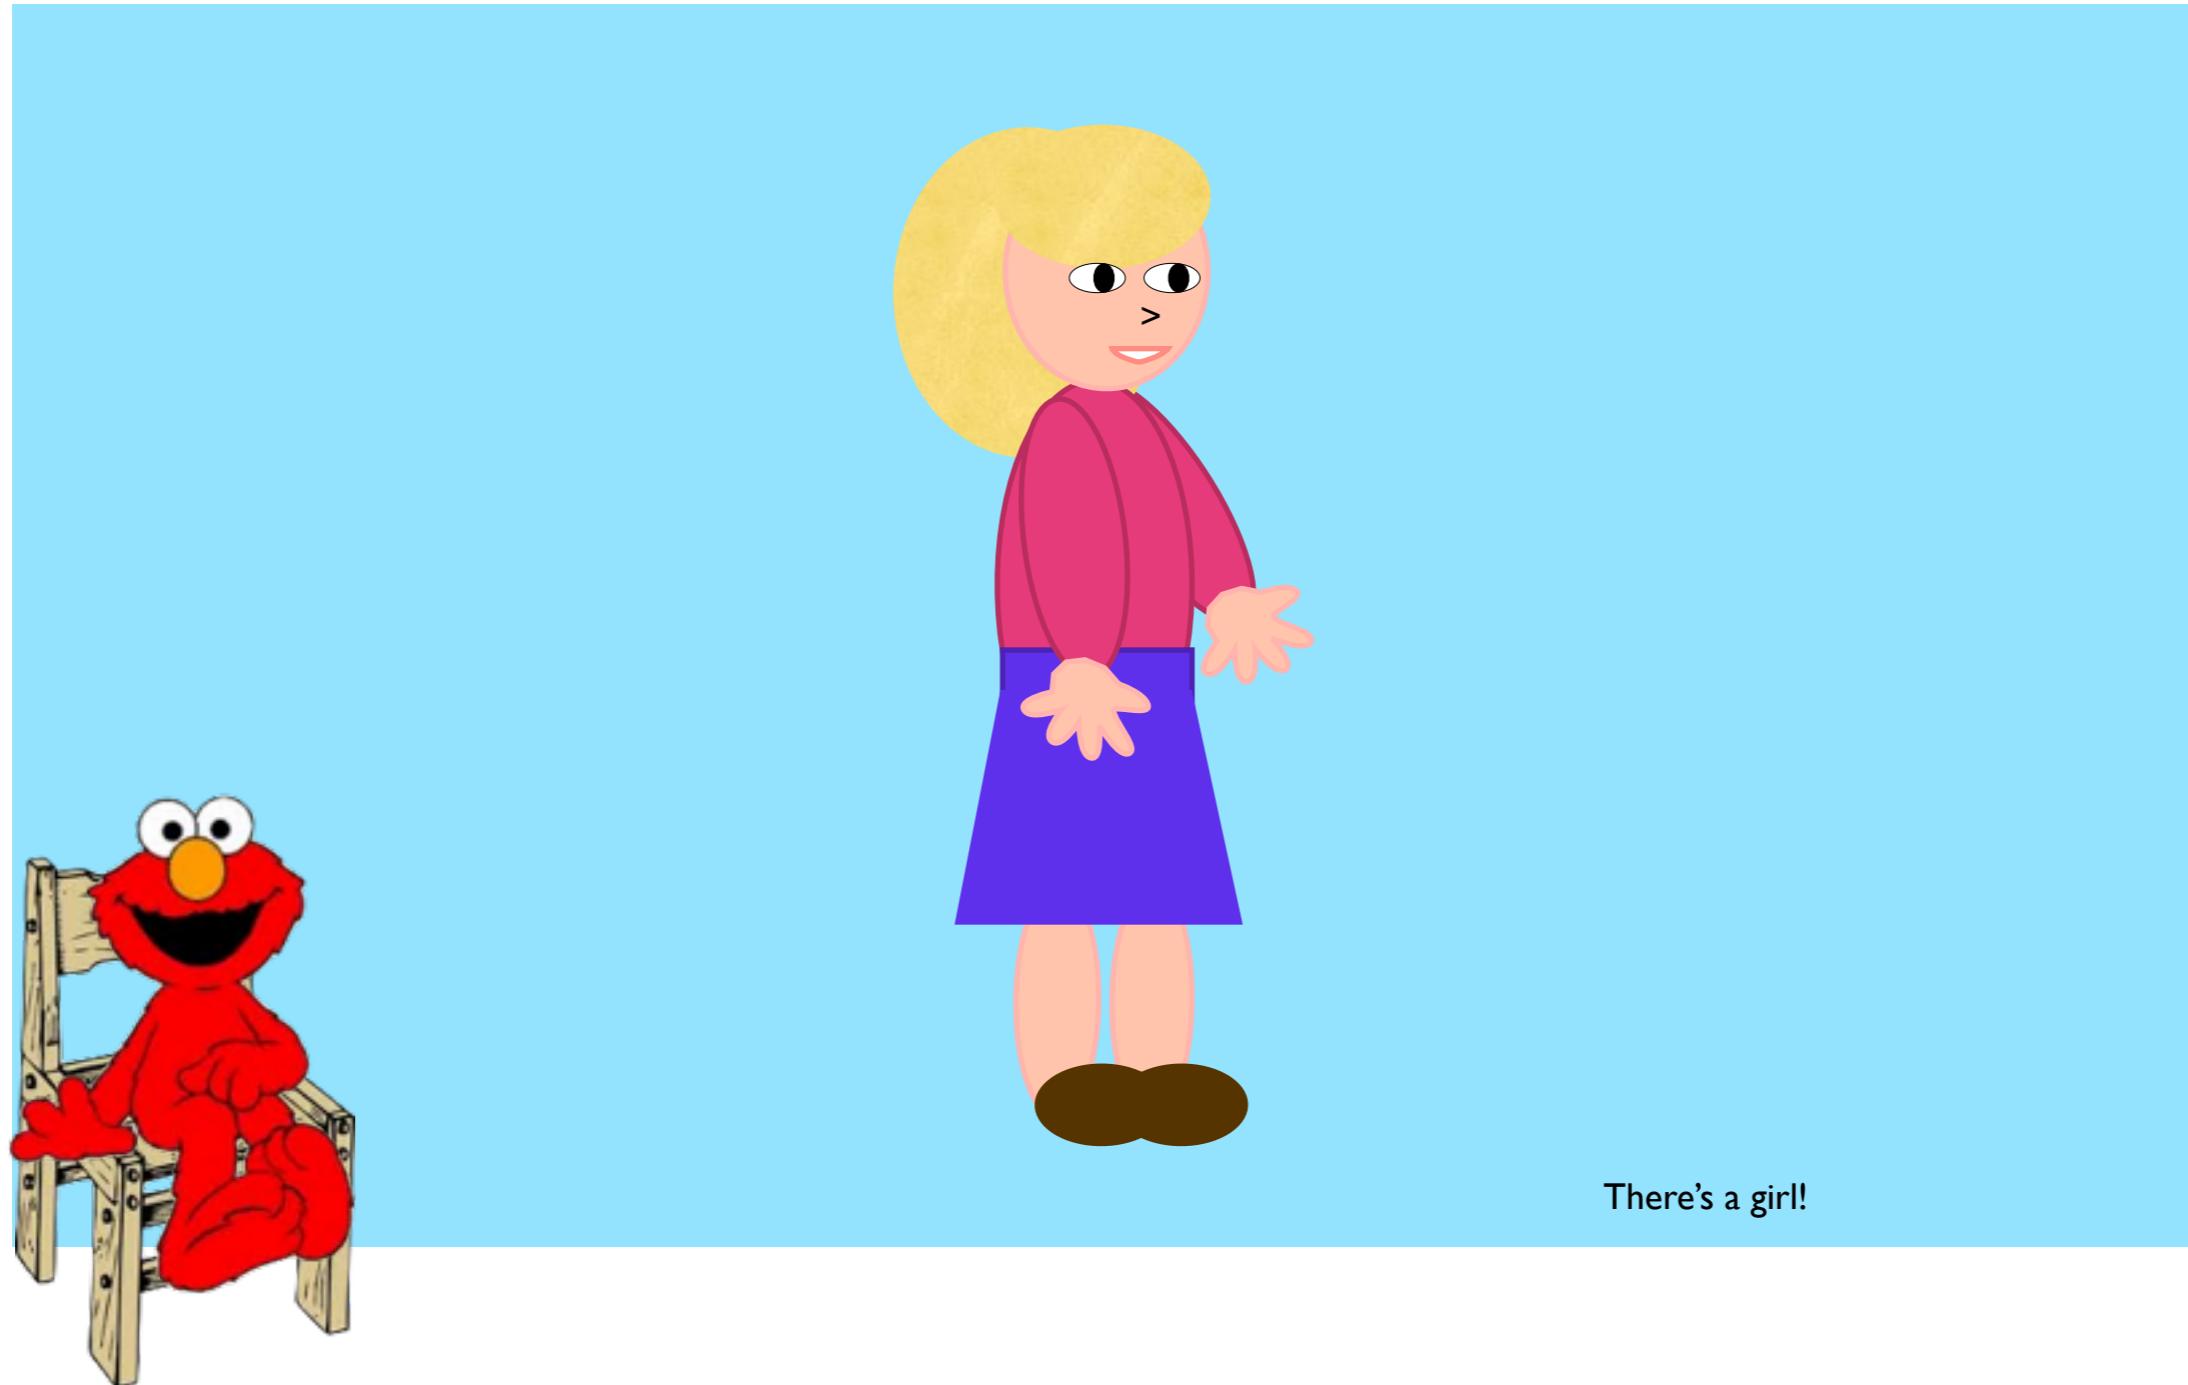

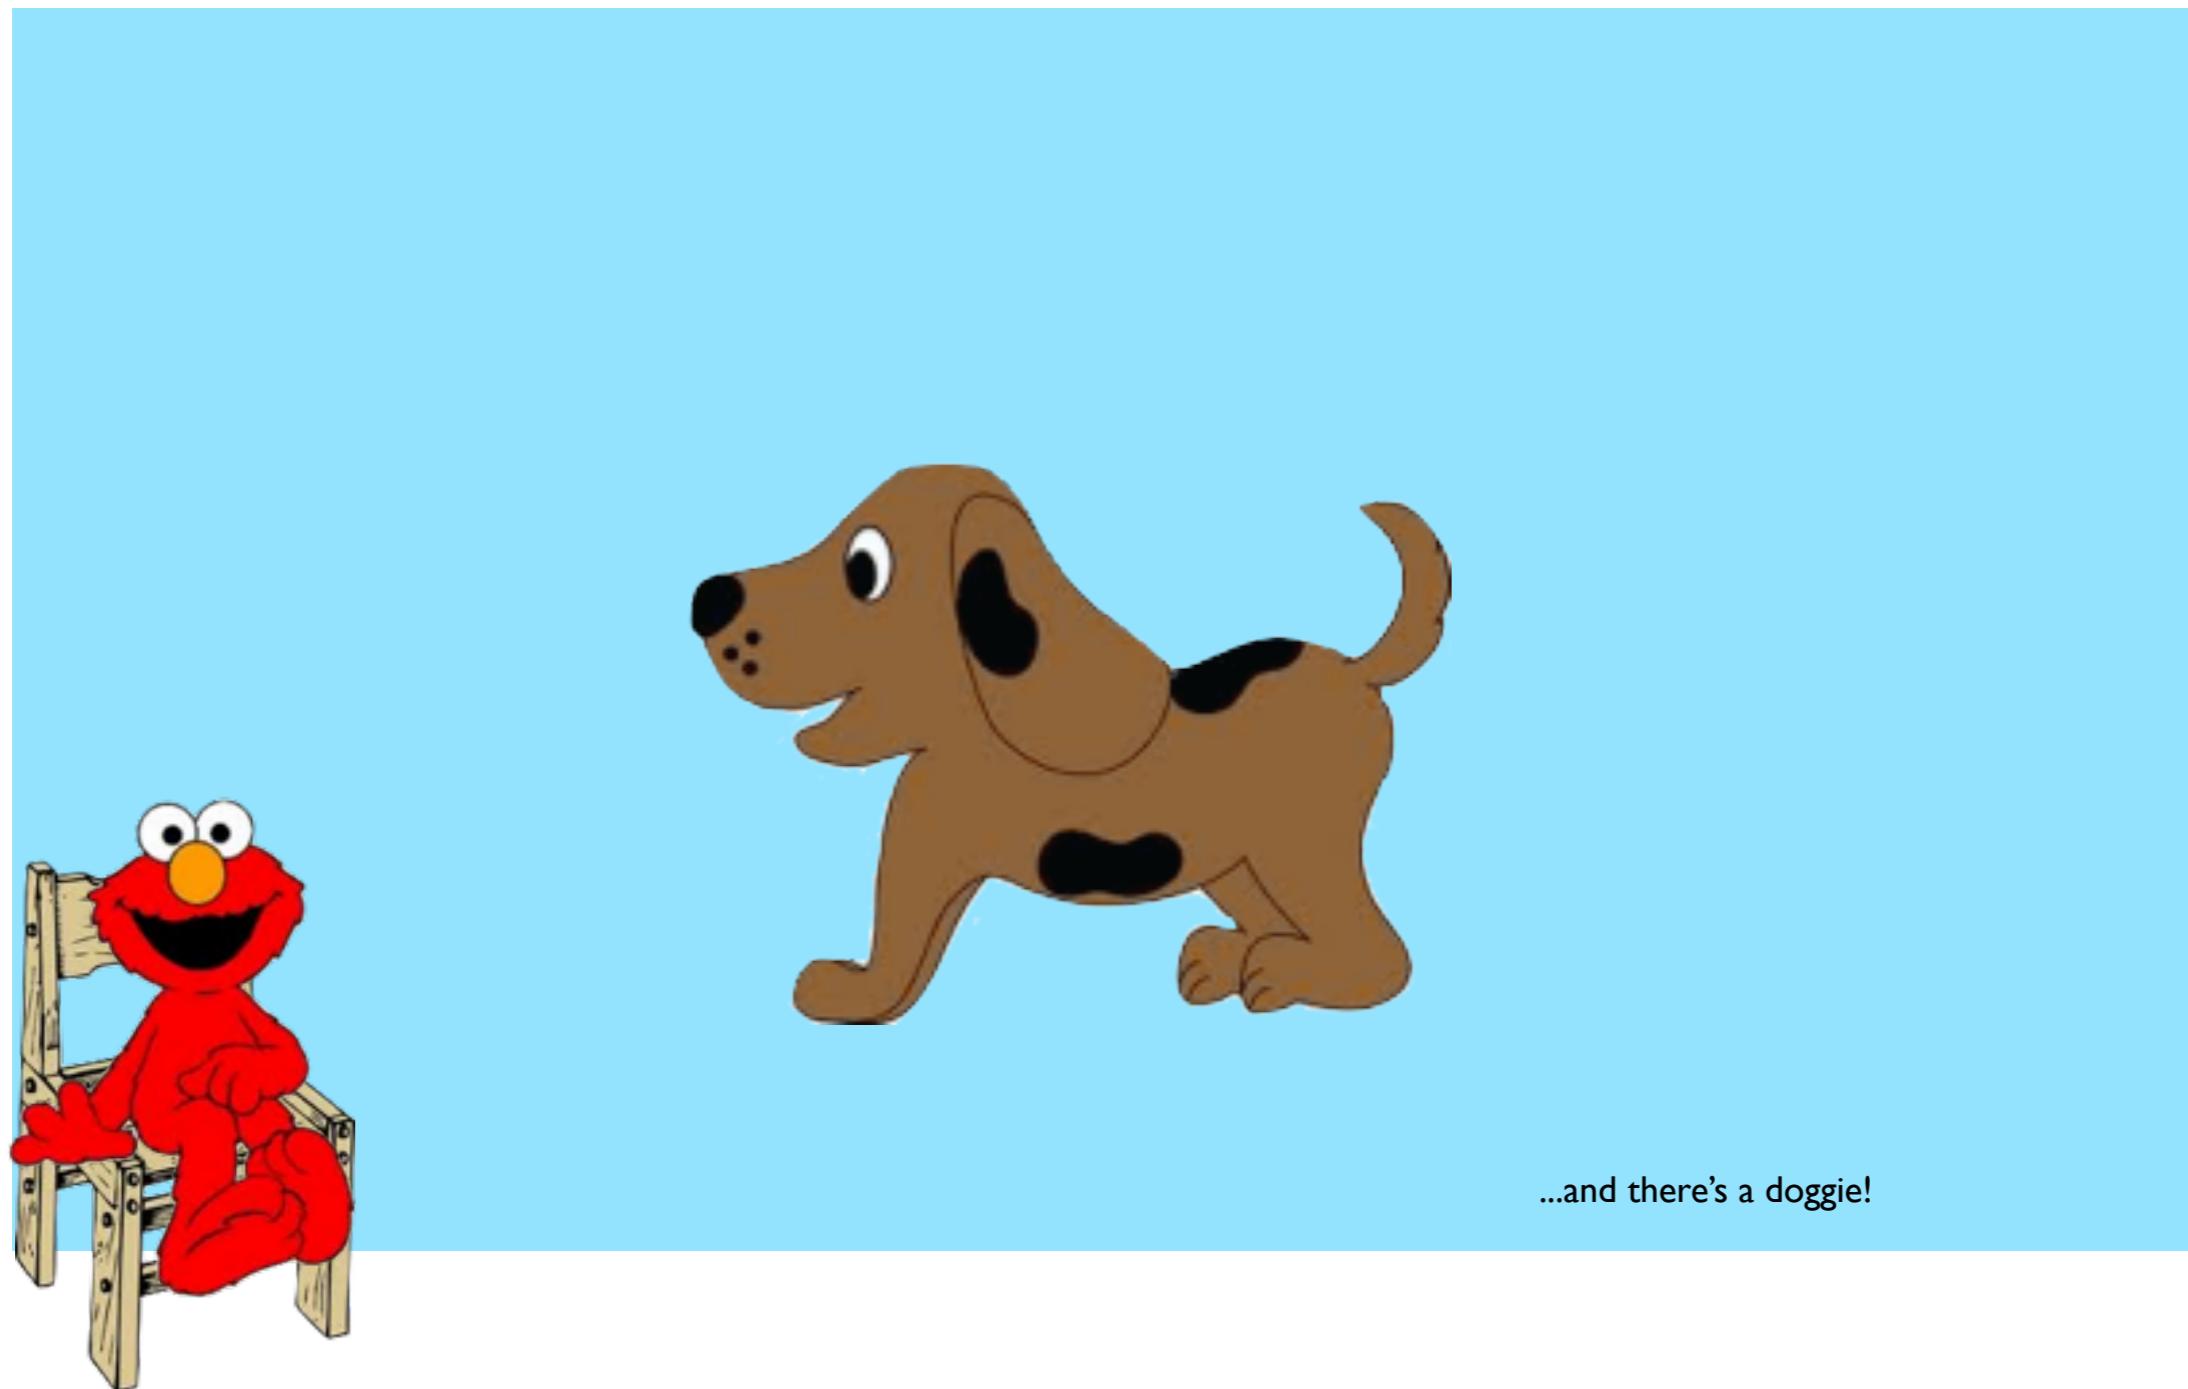

Look at that!
The baby is rolling the ball.

Let's tell Elmo what happened!
Say, "The baby is rolling the ball."

...and there's a doggie!

There they are!! Let's see what happens...

Look at that!
The girl is feeding the doggie.

Let's tell Elmo what happened!
Say, "The girl is feeding the doggie."

There's a baby!

There's a Grandma!

There they are!! Let's see what happens...

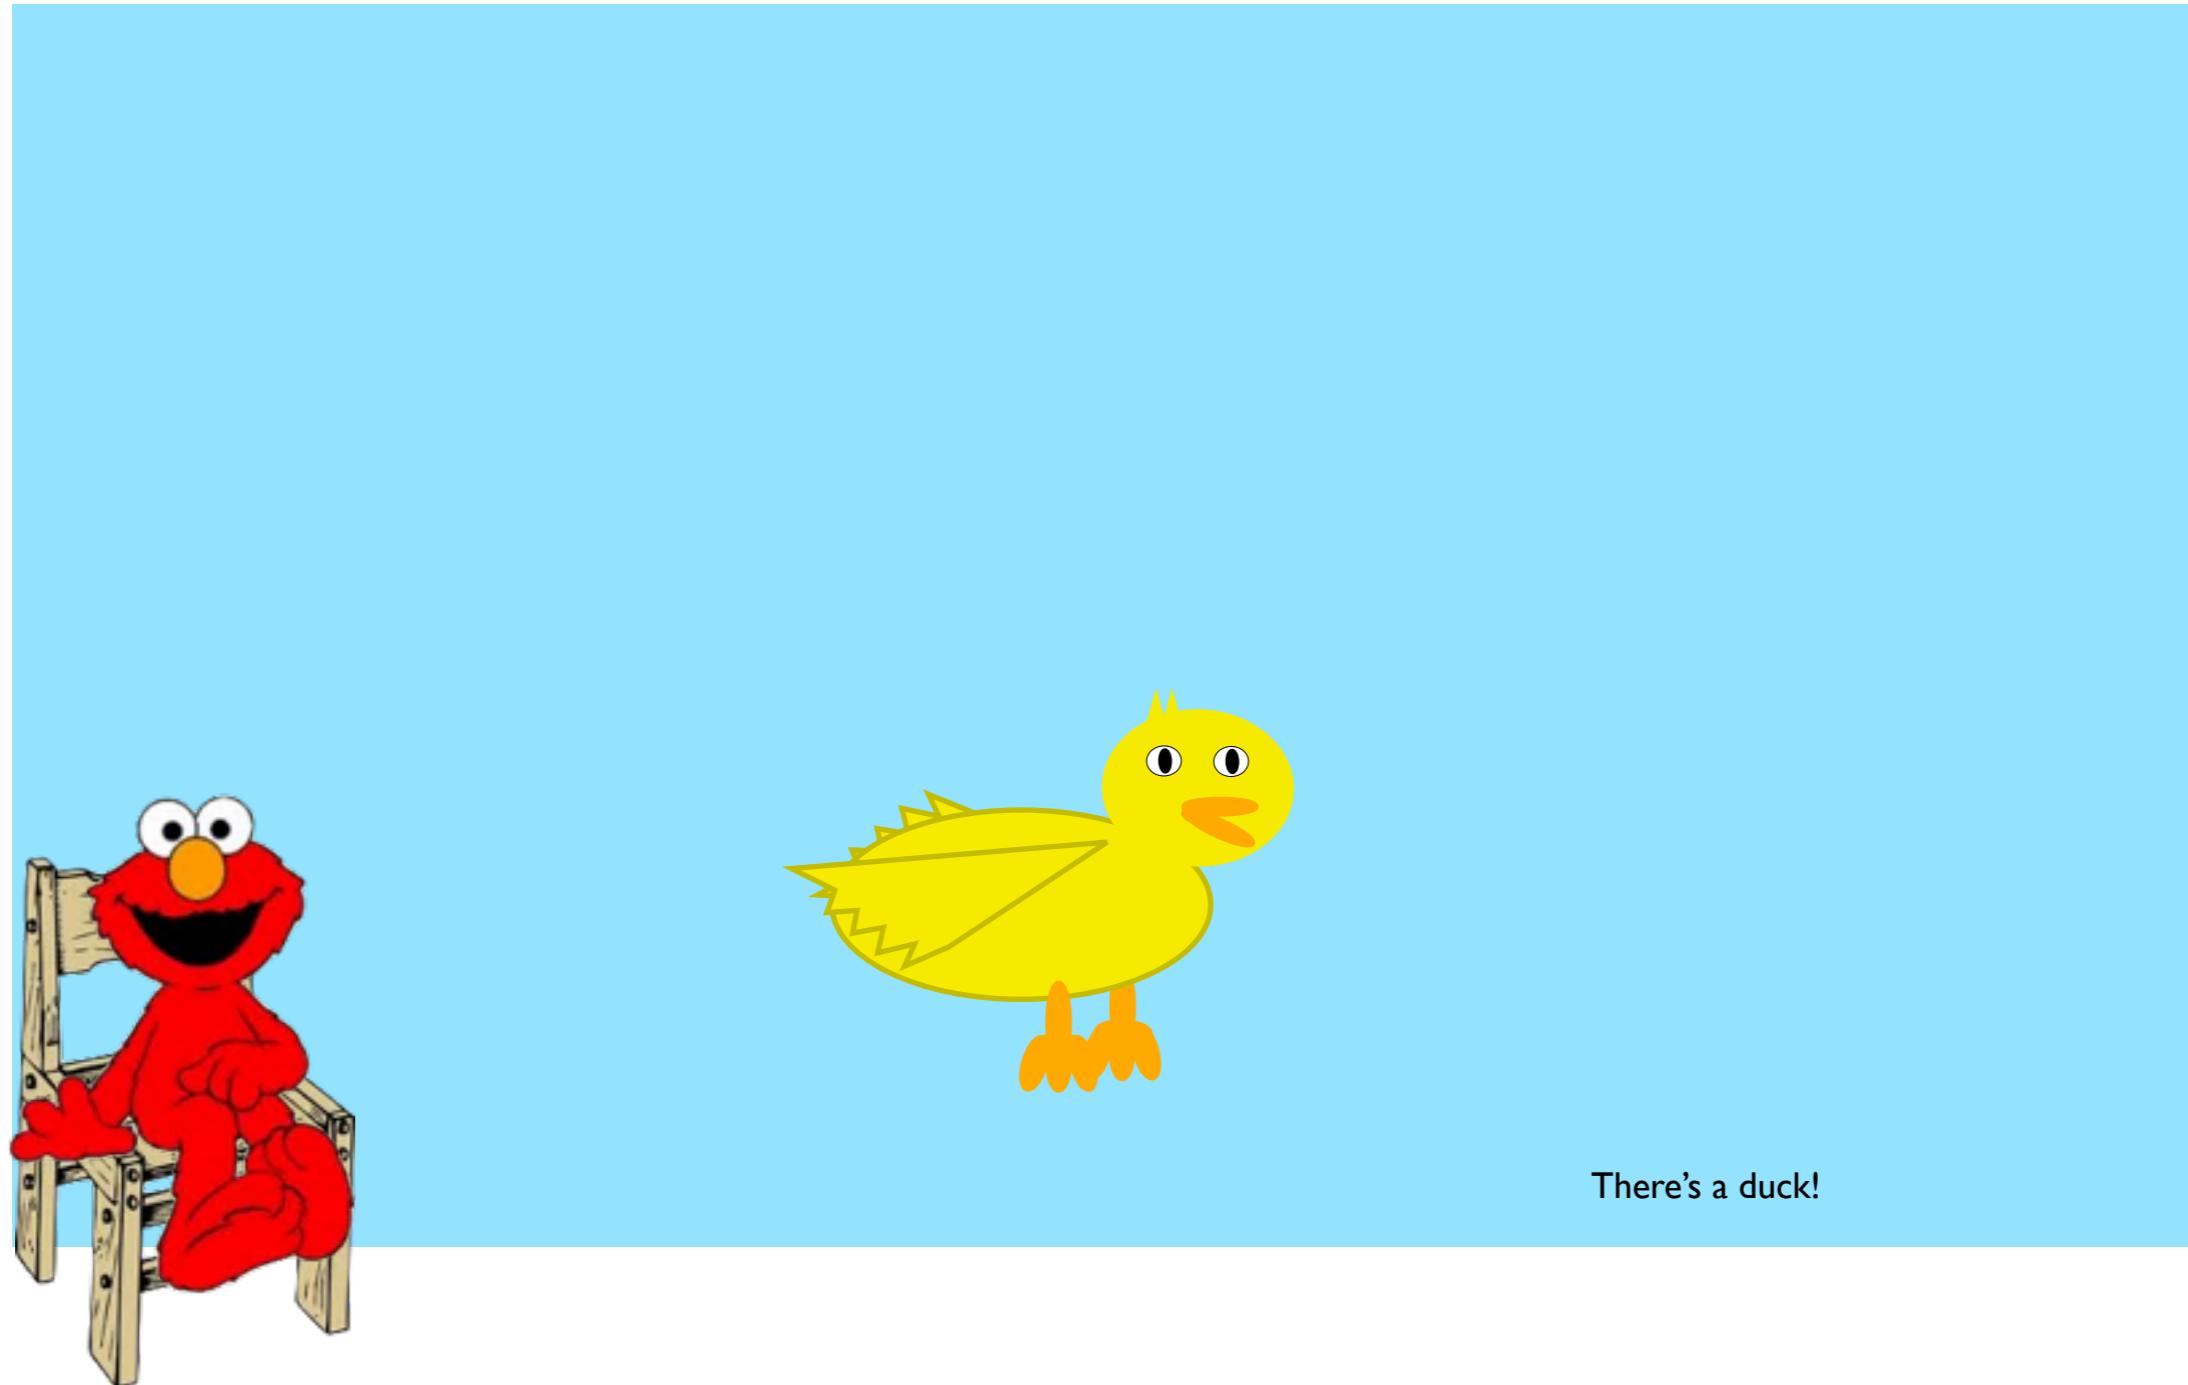

Look at that!
The grandma is drinking juice.

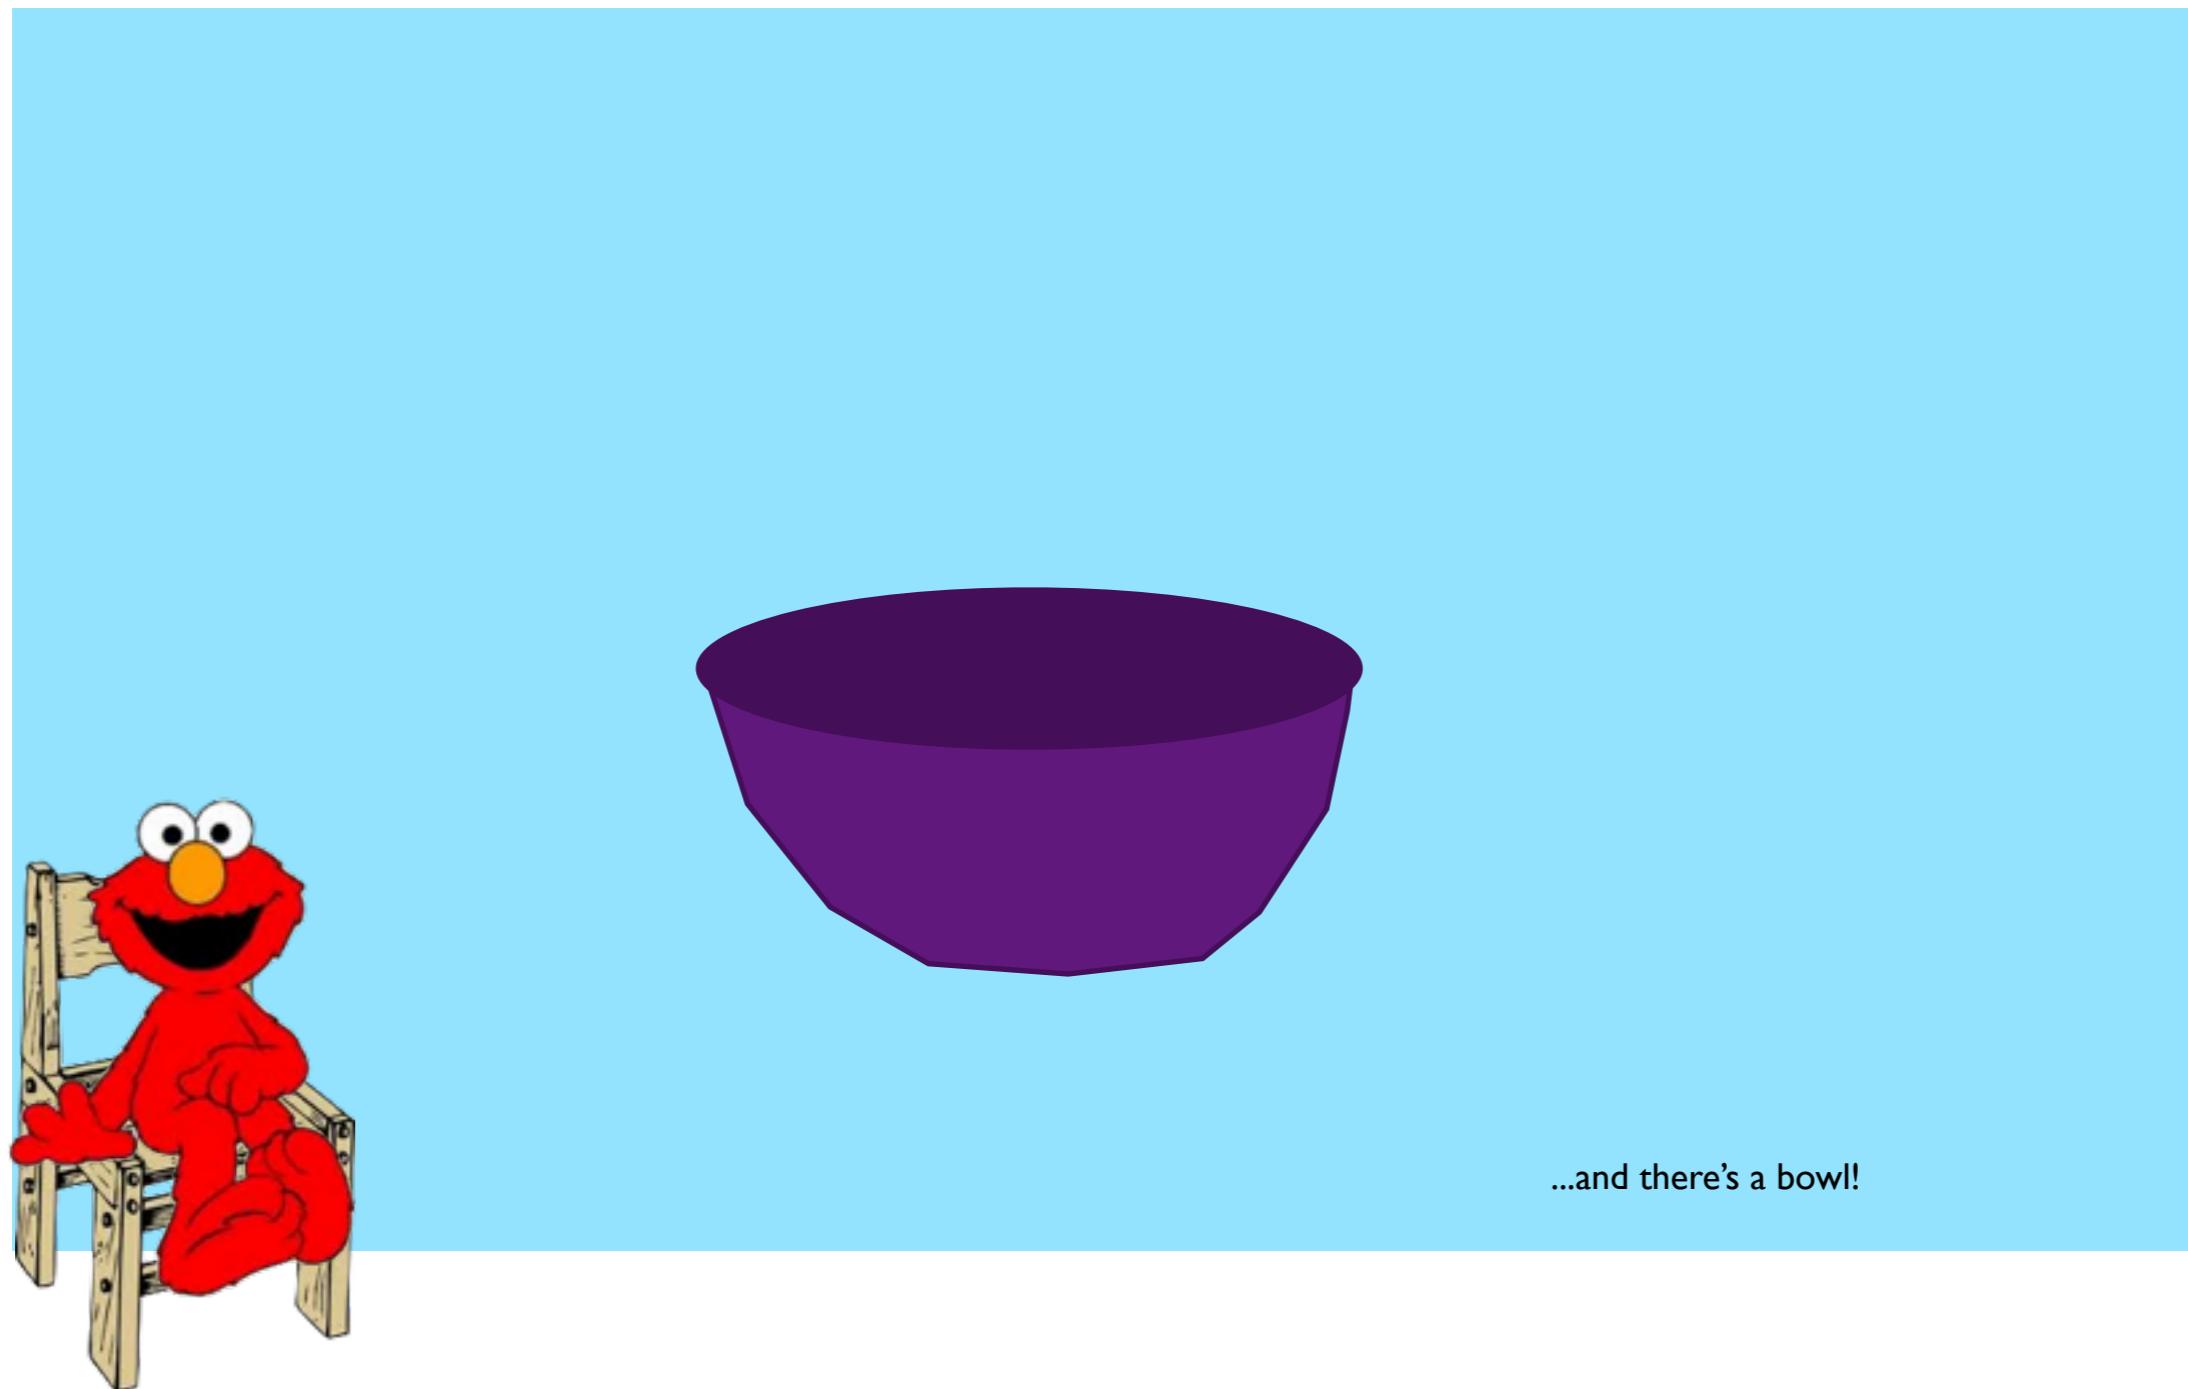

Let's tell Elmo what happened!
Say, "The grandma is drinking juice."

There's a spoon!

There's a duck!

There they are!! Let's see what happens...

Look at that!
The duck is washing the bowl.

Let's tell Elmo what happened!
Say, "The duck is washing the bowl."

All done, yay!!
